Radford Takes Helm As Top Defense Leader

Admiral Becomes Joint Chiefs Of Staff Chairman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower today got a new senior military advisor and the military services saluted a new skipper as Adm. Arthur W. Radford took the oath as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

He was sworn in by his veteran soldier predecessor, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, at a Pentagon ceremony attended by high civilian and military leaders.

The unusual procedure of having a new chief sworn in by his predecessor was approved by both men and by Defense Secretary Wilson to underline the orderly turnover of the military high command.

In another Pentagon ceremony Gen. Mathew B. Ridgway took over from Gen. J. Lawton Collins as Army chief of staff.

Adm. Radford accepted his mission and congratulations with a brief: "I will try my best." Ridgway delivered a 4-minute speech in which he pledged "unquestioning loyalty" to civilian authority and dedicated himself to gaining full respect from all civilians for the men and women in uniform.

A third member of the new military team, Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force chief of staff, witnessed both swearing in ceremonies today as a veteran of six weeks in his job. He succeeded Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg on June 30.

Adm. Radford's team will be complete Monday when Adm. Robert Carney succeeds Adm. William Fechteler as chief of naval operations. As chairman of the joint chiefs, Radford actually commands no forces, but he is charged by law with being the principle military advisor to the defense secretary and the President.

The new chiefs have been given the task of making an exhaustive survey of the nation's defense needs. They will make recommendations which will not only serve as the basis for next year's military budget but which also could change the course of this nation's global strategy.

Radford has gone on record with his belief that the United States cannot hope to compete with the Communists on a manpower basis but he believes "we can build up an organization that can apply superior power at the right time and places."

HURRICANE DAMAGE IN NORTH CAROLINA—A late model automobile is demolished beneath a pile of concrete blocks and debris at the yacht basin in Morehead City, N. C., after a hurricane screeched across the area with top winds estimated at 95 miles an hour. High winds and heavy rain accompanied the first full blown tropical storm of the season to strike inland. The hurricane hit eastern Virginia and headed toward the Delaware-New Jersey coast. (AP Wirephoto)

Eisenhower Okays Bill To Plug Tax Loopholes

DENVER, Aug. 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed into law a bill designed to prevent movie stars and other high-salaried Americans from avoiding payment of U. S. taxes on income earned abroad.

For many years Congress has exempted from income taxation the earnings of citizens who were bona fide residents of foreign countries for specified periods.

Intended to encourage foreign employment of U. S. technicians, the law was discovered to have been subject to abuse by persons seeking to avoid payment of U. S. income taxes.

The President's signature today changed the law to limit to $20,000 a year the amount of exempt earnings for individuals who have been abroad for at least 17 of 18 consecutive months.

Amounts over $20,000, such as lucrative motion picture salaries or earnings, would be subject to tax.

Letup Seen In French Strike Rash

PARIS, Aug. 15 (AP)—France was still hard hit by paralyzing strikes in railroads, postal-telephone and other key services but saw some signs of a break today—a national holiday.

But the holiday—National Assumption Day when millions of Frenchmen weren't working anyway—made it difficult to tell whether the strikes actually were abating.

The holiday did bring a technical end to the 48-hour stoppage among public functionaries and there were signs Premier Joseph Laniel was getting more conciliatory toward labor.

Tourists, however, continued to be annoyed as custom agents, after folding their arms in strike earlier in the week, began "zeal strikes" at Paris airports and at many border points.

The "zeal strike" consists of enforcing every regulation on the books. It involved long, minute examination of travelers' luggage. At Paris airports this strike was leveled at freight, where agents even opened crates of sausages and counted and weighed each one.

The postal, telephone and telegraph strike was in its 10th day, with the army and policemen doing some sorting and delivery of letters. While there had been no break in the long tie-up, there were reports Laniel was considering conceding the strikers one of their demands—a 20,000-franc ($57.14) annual bonus.

Laniel also advised one union leader that he is not opposed to calling later in the year for a government commission to study the possibility of a general upward revision of wages on the basis of cost of living rises.

But not until Monday or Tuesday—after the holiday weekend—were there expected to be big new developments either for another upheaval or an end to the biggest strike to hit France since 1936.

Laniel obviously was trying to avoid showing any signs of governmental weakness towards the strikers, but a straw in the wind today was the fact he held talks with leaders of both the big non-Communist labor federations—the Socialist Workers Force (Fo) and the Christian (Catholic) Labor Federation (CFTC).

Prisoner Sticks To Hunger Strike After Five Days

FRANKLINTON, La., Aug. 15 (AP)—John Edward Ralph, who hasn't eaten in five days because he objects to the service in the Franklinton Parish prison, said tonight he was "getting a little weak and dizzy."

It seems that Ralph wants the jailer to hand his tray of food through the cell door to him.

Besides not eating, Ralph has caused jailers an extra amount of trouble and cost the parish prison about $3,000 in damages.

Tuesday night he ripped the commode off his cell wall.

"We haven't had any trouble with him since Tuesday night," said Deputy Sheriff Emery Goff. "Then he ripped the commode off the wall of his cell and turned all the faucets on. They ran all night and the water seeped into offices on the first floor." Water damage estimates were about $5,000, Goff said.

"Since then," the deputy continued, "he's been just as nice as he can be and we've returned the favor. He just won't eat. I think he's come to the conclusion that he can't break out of our jail. He's already tried once.

"I think he wants to go to the hospital and try to escape from there. He's said many times he'll get out if he gets half a chance.

"Somebody smuggled him in a file and hack saw blades and he tried to file our bars. But we've got hollow bars with another bar inside that turns when you try to file it."

The deputy said he thought Ralph had decided he could only get out if someone opened the door for him and was hoping to get a chance while he was fed.

"We plan to have a doctor in to check him every day or so," Goff said. "But we can't force him to eat."

One Of Pacific's Wildest Typhoons Misses Okinawa

NAHA, Okinawa, Sunday, Aug. 16 (AP)—One of the wildest typhoons ever recorded in the Pacific bypassed Okinawa and the key American Airbase today after slapping it overnight with winds up to 78 miles an hour.

At 3 a.m. today, (1 p.m., EST, Saturday) Air Force weathermen said that the typhoon center was moving into the China Sea at 15 knots about 130 miles southeast of the island. Wind here had dropped to 46 to 58 miles an hour.

In its present course, the storm center will hit the Chinese mainland about 120 miles south of Shanghai, forecasters said.

Before the course of the storm changed overnight, weathermen had predicted winds of 140 m.p.h. would whip the island today.

The American Superfort bombers and most of the fighter planes here were flown to other bases until the winds died down.

American base personnel and their families were housed in concrete, typhoon-proof shelters. The island's 600,000 farmers gathered in all possible crops, tied down as best they could all moveable buildings and retired to their squatty, thick stone houses, built with the knowledge of generations on the vulnerable island to withstand the annual typhoons.

Red Chinese Threaten Exchange Snag Unless Treatment Is Praised

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea, Sunday, Aug. 16 (AP)—Liberated Americans returned from Red prison camps said yesterday Chinese had threatened to halt their repatriation unless the Americans told Red Cross workers their camp treatment was good.

The Americans said that a Chinese interpreter threatened them at Kaesong, the last North Korean stop before their delivery for repatriation at Panmunjom.

Other American repatriates added to previous returned prisoners stories that some of their buddies had been held back from repatriation at Camp 1, on the Yalu River North Korea, on flimsy charges lodged against them by their captors.

The Kaesong incident was reported by Cpl. Stefano Salerno of

Corn Crop Quota Rule In Doubt

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—A loophole in farm legislation may lead Secretary of Agriculture Benson to announce that marketing quotas will not be invoked on the 1954 corn crop even though big supplies might warrant them.

Unlike other crops subject to controls, the law fails to provide a penalty for farmers who oversell corn quotas. Hence, quotas in themselves would be without effect in restricting production, sale or use of this grain.

Department lawyers said congressional committees had indicated their intention of providing penalties, but the proper legislation was not passed.

Under quotas voted on the 1954 wheat crop by farmers Friday, sales of this grain in excess of a farm's quota would be subject to a penalty tax of about $1.10 a bushel, or more than half the current price of the grain.

Latest returns from the wheat quota referendum show the quotas were approved by an overwhelming margin. Figures announced by the Agriculture Department today showed 361,392 growers voting for the quotas, and 53,252 opposed. This was a favorable vote of 87.2 per cent, far larger than the 66 and two-thirds per cent required. The figures were still preliminary, but later tallies were not expected to change the percentages much.

As for corn, a department forecast this week of a 3,330,000,000-bushel crop raised the prospect of quotas on next year's crop. Benson said at the time that quotas might be necessary under the law, subject, of course, to approval by two-thirds of the growers voting in a referendum.

Later, department officials did some calculating and concluded that the prospective supply this year was slightly below a level which, under law, would require the secretary to propose quotas.

They suggested that the secretary take advantage of the situation and announce now that there will be no sales restrictions. They pointed out that if he waited longer—the law gives him until Nov. 15 to make a decision—crop prospects might improve sufficiently to force him to invoke quotas which he could not enforce.

U. S. Carrier In Mercy Fleet Off Stricken Islands

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 15 (AP)—The U. S. aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt joined the international mercy fleet off the Ionian islands today to serve as a floating base for air relief of the quake-stricken people.

The 45,000-ton giant from the U. S. 6th Fleet and seven supporting ships dropped anchor at Argostolion, the ruined chief port of Kefallinia, to help ease the misery left there and on the neighboring islands of Ithaca and Zakinthos by earthquakes estimated to have killed more than 1,000 persons.

More than 40 other ships—American, British, Israeli and Greek—were already on the scene, with labor details, medical teams and kitchen crews seeking to bring order from the chaos.

Vice Adm. John H. Cassady, commander of the 6th Fleet, said the situation "still is serious," but the relief operation now is functioning smoothly and the tempo is increasing.

Thousands of Greeks jammed churches today for two prayers—one for the quake victims and the other commemorating the Feast of the Virgin Mary. Aug. 15 is the most important religious day of the church.

Hurricane Heads Out To Sea After New England Lash

BOSTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—Hurricane B-for-Barbara boiled out to sea tonight, passing south of Nova Scotia after giving the New England coast a buffeting—but causing little damage.

The storm passed within 20 miles of the Massachusetts island of Nantucket—crowded with summer vacationers—during the night. Only minor damage was reported there despite 60 mile an hour winds and more than 2 inches of rain.

On the Mainland of Massachusetts and Rhode Island winds of 40 to 50 miles an hour lashed coastal cities and towns, and the storm left near-record rains in some places.

New Bedford, Mass., reported 4.85 inches, and Falmouth, at one end of Cape Cod, had 3.90 inches.

The rainfall was lighter than that—but heavy by normal standards—in other southeastern New England communities.

The only substantial damage caused by the storm which flayed the coast as the hurricane passed out to sea in the early morning hours was to a few yachts which broke their moorings or sank at anchor.

Federal Spending Cut of $2-Billion Seen By Bridges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—Sen. Bridges (R-NH) forecast today that federal spending would total 72 billion dollars in the current financial year, two billion less than the latest Eisenhower administration estimate.

However, such a spending figure still would leave the budget unbalanced by 3½ billion dollars on the basis of the administration's revenue forecast.

Bridges' estimate was contained in a report on the record of the 1953 session of Congress on money bills. He is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, as well as president pro tempore of the Senate.

He did not explain how spending could be pushed down to the 72 billion figure, which compares with the most recent estimate of $74,100,000,000 in spending for fiscal 1954 made by top administration officials.

But an Appropriations Committee aide who assisted in preparing the report said that Bridges believed the administration would find ways to cut off the additional two billion in the remaining 10½ months of the fiscal year.

The President and his budget director, Joseph M. Dodge, already have issued orders for strict economy in the months ahead.

Bridges reported that Congress cut 8,081,517,697 off the appropriations requests of former President Truman in the last session.

He called this "the largest cut in appropriations that has been made in the history of the United States in a single session of Congress."

President Eisenhower revised the Truman budget downward, but the lawmakers trimmed $4,578,210,207 more off the new President's requests.

The reduction in the Truman budget included about 13 billion slashed off what the former President asked for fiscal 1954, and one billion off supplementary bills he sent up in January for fiscal 1953.

Lodge Implies U. S. Is Easing Its Opposition

Britain, Canada And France Are Plan Exponents

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—The 16 United Nations allies who fought together in Korea reached virtual agreement today on a formula to seat Russia at the Korean peace conference.

A 3-hour harmony meeting to heal a U. S.-British breach on the question broke up with a formal announcement of substantial progress.

From some sources, however, it was learned agreement was so near that delegates were cabling home to their governments tonight to approve their ratification of it at another meeting of the 16 tomorrow.

It was learned that a series of resolutions on the makeup of the peace conference has been decided on.

A U. S.-backed resolution, in which most of the others would join, would invite any of the 16 U. N. members and South Korea—all of whom had fighting forces on the Korean front—to be members of the peace conference, representing the U. N. side.

A second resolution would invite

Reich Reds Alarmed At East Union

BERLIN, Aug. 15 (AP)—The Communist regime expressed alarm tonight at "enemies and Western agents" in the five million member East German Free Trade Union Federation (FDGB).

Hebert Warnke, Red FDGB chairman, said "Western agents" were disrupting production in the basic industries of building construction, chemicals and metals.

He charged that anti-Communist elements had tried to instigate mass desertions from the federation after the East German revolt of June 17 "through strikes and boycotts."

In a policy article in the FDGB newspaper Die Tribuene, he denounced efforts by many unionists to "make the federation neutral."

He singled out the labor force in East Germany's largest synthetic gasoline and rubber works for condemnation for their "wavering attitude."

He said new elections of union officials in Soviet zone industries would be authorized only "where there was capitulation on June 17."

Warnke said demands for new union elections were a "class enemy theory."

We refuse to stand on the side of Fascist provocateurs who plundered on June 17 and tried to burn down the union halls of the FDGB," he asserted. "We refuse to support demands for the liberation of criminals arrested on June 17.

Grieving Mother Bestows Last Kiss On Each Of 5 Children

Rites Held For Icebox Victims

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark., Aug. 15 (AP)—Four brothers and their baby sister, trapped and suffocated in an old icebox were buried in the rich, black Arkansas earth today.

They were the youngest children of a tenant farmer, J. A. Hallman—the first to die in a recent series of icebox "death traps" that shocked the nation.

Two boys who perished in a similar tragedy were buried today at Haverhill, Mass.

Three of four boys who smothered in an old icebox at Richmond, Va., were interred yesterday. Funeral services for the fourth will be held in Taft, Tex.

The emotion-packed Hallman funeral drew about 200 neighbors and friends, many from out-of-state. The stiff, curiously doll-like bodies, in white coffins against a bank of flowers, reduced many to tears.

Mrs. Hallman, 28, shaken by sobs, her face streaming with bitter tears, kissed each child before the coffin lids were closed and cried over each blonde head:

"God bless you, darling . . . oh, God bless you."

The cemetery, a flat stretch of green in the hot sun, was bordered by cotton fields similar to the one in which Mrs. Hallman was working when her children climbed into the icebox and somehow slammed the lid last Wednesday.

Hallman, 34, was in Rockford, Ill., when the accident happened. He had left to work in the city because a drouth made it tough to make a living on the farm.

The chain of accidents will mean the end of many an old icebox—each a potential death trap for venturesome children. Over 100 youngsters have perished in such traps during the past five years.

Several states — including New Jersey, Illinois, Massachusetts, Nevada and Pennsylvania — already have laws requiring that doors or locks be removed from abandoned refrigerators.

In Richmond, a state legislator, E. M. Hudgins, said he will introduce a bill to require such an action in Virginia.

In Charleston, W. Va., state officials ordered inspectors to remove or break the locks on all abandoned or stored refrigerators.

At Memphis, appliance dealers opened a drive to collect unused boxes and destroy them by hammer and fire.

Work Started To Halt River Bank Erosion

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 15—UP—The U.S. Corps of Engineers have begun work on an asphalt revetment to stop erosion along a 2,200-foot section of the Mississippi River bank extending northward from the Port Allen ferry landing.

Ferry service will be suspended from 10 p.m. Saturday to 5 a.m. Monday to permit engineers to complete work at that point.

New Warning For Television Buyers Issued

With a view towards helping the TV buying public avoid the pitfall experienced in other television markets, the television committee of the Monroe-West Monroe Chamber of Commerce has had reprints made of the Readers' Digest article entitled "Beware the Bait Ad Gyp."

The article, written by C. Lester Walker for this month's Readers' Digest, points out that "mostly the people who get hooked are those who can least afford it. They have to count the pennies; a temptingly low price on a famous name product appeals to them."

According to the author of the report to consumers, the racket has been worse with vacuum cleaners and sewing machines but now the same tricking is being employed in TV sets, radios and refrigeration. The story goes on to say the first question one should ask for protection is "Is the article advertised at a rediculously low price?"

Jim Williams, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has advised that reprints are available at the chamber office in the Virginia Hotel for anyone desiring them. He also invited inquiries from prospective TV buyers if they have any doubt about the set they are considering or the dealer, or his service policy. Twenty-two reputable dealers have filed complete information with the chamber office expressedly for this purpose.

Max Baber, president of the TV group, warned that the public should be careful to buy from a reputable, franchised dealer, who is authorized to issue a factory parts warranty. "There are many good dealers who adhere to the rigid rules set up by the manufacturers in order that a dealer may keep his franchise," Baber said.

Louisiana Guard At Midway Point Of Summer Camp

CAMP POLK, La., Aug. 15—UP—Louisiana and Arkansas National Guardsmen moved into the midway break of their annual two-week summer encampment here Saturday, but thoughts were still on the giant three-day field problem which opens sometime Tuesday.

An "invader" force of some 500 men, using guerrilla tactics and clad in foreign-type uniforms, will strike without warning Tuesday at some portion of the 39th Division defense lines. The invaders will attempt to infiltrate the lines by striking without warning from the rear.

The mammoth problem, which will bring all weapons of the division into play, will close Thursday.

Another highlight of next week's activities will be the visit of three major generals.

Maj. Gen. Haydon Boatner, commander of the Fourth Army; Maj. Gen. George W. Smythe, special assistant for civilian components of the Army; and Maj. Gen. John M. Lentz, office of the Chief of Army Field Forces, will all inspect the Guard units.

WHY?

rsday night of last week, a young student, a Neville High School spoke before the Civitan Club community. Her subject was "Youth of Today." This nt will soon enter her last year of high school before her going on to further her education, or going out into the wide world of general living which today, unlike yesterday, is a woman's world, as well as that of men.

She asked the members of the club some questions which should have had them all squirming in their seats. The idea for her discussion was the continual harangue against the adolescents of this nation who are sometimes called "teenagers," "bobbysoxers" and so forth. She brought out the point that youth of today is beset with problems not of their own manufacture. However, they are problems which these young people are asked to solve and are given no responsibility to cope with their situations.

"We are served war, juvenile delinquency, reckless driving, and drinking of alcoholic beverages for breakfast, lunch and dinner—believe me, it isn't easy to digest these things." Her words sum up the average young American outlook when in every magazine, moving picture show and in many journals, all they can see is a degeneration of adult morals. Divorce is pictured as an everyday affair and something in which to enter with the thought "It didn't work this time, I'll try again."

What can you expect of youth when only turmoil, confusion and a general lapse of morals is the apparent mode of the day? The young speaker emphasized the fact that teenagers are too young to carry the weight of the world on their shoulders, yet, too old to sit back like sheep and permit their nation and their world to be destroyed. She said that young men of 18 are old enough to die, why are they not old enough to take some of the responsibility for the running of their nation?

Can any sane person deny that the wretched world situation of today will be deposited neatly in their laps later today or tomorrow at the latest? All the "elder statesmen" and those on the other side can easily be included, have caused great wars and the resulting economic and social problems for the American citizens who will in three or four years, be expected to take this miserable world situation on their own shoulders and they will be roundly criticized by their elders for not doing a good job.

While the politicians scheme, the stories from Broadway, Hollywood and even Main Street, become more lurid and despicable by the hour, while the newspapers report sex crimes growing in number, perverts in the national government, while morals seem to be falling apart, young America, violently interested and impressionable, sits and watches. Many follow the examples of their elders and others have developed an earlier sense of responsibility which dictates that they follow the right road.

The main question which is asked in all young circles is "if the adults can do it, why can't we?" With this question, the problem is shifted to the back and shoulders of the adults who are supposed to be setting examples for their young followers but rather, who seem to take delight in attempting to see how high the divorce rate can go and in many cases, how immoral they can become.

Every media of entertainment shows this to be the "age of speed and progress." At every signpost, there are advertisements which portray this world of today as the "golden age." Many history students will easily recall that Rome, Egypt, Greece, Carthage, Turkey, all of those civilizations had a "Golden age." No other description is necessary. The elders refuse, many of them to give youth responsibility. They are afraid of youth and some of them feel that no person under the age of thirty-five should be allowed responsibility. Be it known to those who are interested, that many young families start when the parents are but in their early twenties and divorce rates show that these are the lowest ages in which there are family difficulties.

The young people see their nation being wrecked by older, "more responsible people" who take delight in arguing world politics in a stupor at a party and then, declaring treacherous acts against the betterment of their nations and the citizens involved, the following morning. The intrigues of the entertainment world are followed by scandal mongers who fill the news columns with their sordid miserable activities as though they were the gospel.

These are, many of them, "older, more responsible people." Many of them are trash, simple and pure trash who are portrayed as something they aren't. Yet, their antics fill the pockets of many involved whether they be on celluloid, glass, or paper. Do you think that the younger people cannot read? They are sent to school by your taxes and taught to read. They have a hard time reading good literature when there is not too much available within their price range, and what there is, is obscured by three times as much trash.

So, you can easily see what must go through the minds of the younger people. They are trying, most of them, to overcome their problems. They are trying to be good citizens and live normal lives even though that is nearly an impossibility as their elders send the young men off to war, death and captivity, even though there is an enforced delay in the establishment of families because a few venal public figures who at a conference several years ago, sold their nation and its youth down the river to a criminal who went down in world history as the most diabolical ever, and even though the "older, more responsible" people sat at the conventions last year of the only two decisive national political parties, and made themselves out as the fogbound careless individuals, many of them actually are.

Youth watches these conventions which decided their future, and they saw their elders deciding that future. Only in rare cases were they allowed to participate, although, it is never doubted by many people that they could have gone about the meeting in a more normal manner and conducted the affairs of state at least in as good a form as was shown there.

These are but a few examples. Adults of today expect a lot of youth. They do not ever blame themselves, they blame the young people for mistakes made in all walks of life. The young person asks "why." That is a good question and one which needs answering. Don't blame it all on the youngsters. This nation will soon fall into their keeping and if your examples are to be followed, which they are in most instances, they had best be good ones.

You can't blame them for the world situation which is the cause of a major share of the troubles. Think awhile—if you were young, what could you glean from present day life? Would it be a good, lasting impression? Your nation is at stake. Youth, the hope of tomorrow, is on trial, a trial not of its own volition, a trial made by you the adults.

Is it a fair trial? Is youth being given a fair chance? The headlines show otherwise. The problem rests in your hands. You are the leaders of today, they tomorrow. What you do now, they will do later.

Will you be pleased?

Take Note, Americans This Can Happen To You—!

The situation in France today has passed that of a simple emergency. It is bordering on a catastrophe. There is a general strike which is Communist directed and has completely paralyzed the entire nation. Just imagine, if you can, the telephones, the electric services, the gas services, the airlines, the railroads, the restaurants, the bus lines, the taxicabs, everything you take for granted and call "necessities," being all tied up at once.

Suppose all the automobile workers, the defense workers, the ship lines, the truck lines delivering fresh foods went out on strike. Remember that this is all happening at the same time. Do you know why it is happening? Because the French government has asked the French people to "tighten their belts," and has refused them higher pay. Now, you can easily see the power of the Communists and the Socialists in the slowly dying French nation. You can see the vaunted dreams of the social planners going up in smoke as the majority of these workers are employed by "nationalized" industries, or those owned by the French government.

This present situation shows the destruction which can be done to a nation by the spread of "class warfare." It dramatically shows how the Germans managed to sweep the vaunted French army out of existence and occupy a nation which was thought unbeatable. It was done because the French people, from workers right up to the "Comite De Forges" or the "big 100" who ruled France, forgot they were Frenchmen first and members of a class last.

France declared war on itself and was destroyed. Now, the situation is even worse. Americans like the French. They can remember the days of American history when the French under Lafayette came and helped them win their independence from the British. Many Americans fought two wars to help the French either keep or win their independence. There is a close bond of friendship.

Unfortunately, something has happened. It is this class warfare which is sponsored by the Communists and seems to be sweeping the world. It divides nations within themselves. Do you remember what a very great American once said, "If we do not make common cause to save the good old ship of the Union on this voyage, nobody will have a chance to pilot her on another voyage."

Perhaps the French people should remind themselves of Abe Lincoln's advice, even as Americans once took Lafayette's advice. Unfortunately, the Communists, three major wars and a "fringe war" have sapped the French will to resist. Gone is the patriotic fervor which even in revolution cried, "Citoyens, aux armes, La Patrie est en danger!"

In its place is the clinched fist and the hammer and sickle of Communism which has shackled the French to defeat because of mistrust within their own house.

Americans, you are facing the same danger. There is class warfare being fostered every day in your nation. Many pro-Communists and outright Communists are spreading evil words about the industrialists who, many of them, were former workers, and the industrialists are adopting "defensive measures." They are also no angels, having made numerous deals which hurt the great populace of this nation. Therefore, instead of a people united in one cause, that of the preservation of the nation which has given workers, industrialists, all walks of Americans, all they have, you have the beginnings of a dangerous threat.

The same thing can happen to this nation which happened in France. When people believe that they have lost the right to become greater, when they feel that they have gone as far as they can go," and when there are those who are determined to hold them in that category, whether they be industrialists or Communists who care not a "hang" for the workers, simply using them, a nation is in danger.

Now, a serious current problem has arisen from this French crisis. It is simply this: Can and will France fight for its future and independence against the Russians when and if the time comes? There are hundreds of thousands of French Communists who will refuse. They hold that they cannot fight against the "worker's motherland, the Soviet Union."

In other words, a political philosophy has sapped the patriotism of many Frenchmen just as Marx said it would, and has turned this formerly poignant, militant force over to the enemy of all free people. Do the French people actually believe they will be better off under Communism? It is impossible to see how this could be with the present world examples so neatly provided by the Communists. Yet, so powerful is this Communist ideology that is has separated many a Frenchman from not only his nation, but from his God.

Therefore, many high American officials are watching this strike with great alarm. Would the same thing happen if the Soviet troops were to march toward La Belle France? Apparently there are those who believe so. If this is the case, can France be relied upon to be the "anchor" in Europe?

A large ship anchored near the rocks of disaster can little afford to see that anchor drag during a time of tempest. This is this time if ever there was such in the annals of history. American freedom is anchored in two major places, France and the Orient. In both places, the anchors are dragging and hurricanes are on the way. Perhaps these anchors should be replaced with those of heavier weight.

Harken back to Lincoln again and remember when he said, "It is difficult to make a man miserable while he feels that he is worthy of himself and claims kindred to the great God who made him." Many Frenchmen— and alas, some Americans—have forgotten this theory of common sense put out by a homespun American who arose from what the class antagonists might call the "lower classes" to become his nation's first citizen, a man who was respected by even his enemies and a man who had malice toward none and charity for all. He felt that a house divided against itself would fall like a house of cards.

Perhaps Americans had better read over these words with great care. Frenchmen should memorize them.

Americans—look at France.

This can happen to you.

Editor, Morning World:

My daughter and son-in-law, Victoria and Pete Reno, and their little five year old son "Scoop" live three blocks down Dick Taylor St. from me. They fenced in their back yard to keep their pets in so they would not run out and bother the neighbors. At night she let old Sargent and Little Dusty stay in the house with "Scoop". They are so much protection, and so much company for them, because Pete is always working away from home.

Every day Victoria and "Scoop" come to the store and help me. They would always bring Sargent with them usually, and every morning when they let him out of the house he would slip off and come to see me. He would not follow them back home and at times they would have to carry him back.

Yes, our old pet dog loved us all, he was humble and quiet.

Then Victoria left him and Little Dusty closed up in their yard, and came down to the store but did not stay long. When she returned home our beloved dog was dead in the yard, and Dusty was sick. Poison had been put in the yard for them.

She called me and told us Sargent was dead. "Scoop," who was with me, started running down the hot pavement barefooted to get to his mother.

My daughter cried and worried until she was sick. She called Pete long distance in Florida and when she told him, he was barely able to talk. She could hear his heavy breathing over the telephone.

Little "Scoop" called me on the telephone and said "Mama" I said "What darling." He said "Mama when I saw Sargent dead, I wanted to die too. I wanted to kill myself." Bless his heart he was crying and trying to talk too. Then he stopped talking and I said, "son, "Scoop", darling are you there, he says, "Yes, mama, I want to tell you, I did want to kill myself, but now I don't want to. I want to stay here and take care of "Little Dusty" cause he is sick and needs me."

I did not cry, because with the years we learn not to cry, but I was hurt and shaken.

Why do people want to be evil and do evil things. How can they rest within themselves and God. Poisoning pets, taking chances at children lives. Old strays and vicious dogs are never bothered. It's the pets that are loved, cared for, taught to love children, and taught right from wrong that are killed.

God has his way of making people pay and I believe he will punish them for what they are going.

Notice To Veterans Of World Wars And The Korean War

Aug. 13, 1953

Monroe, La.

The American Legion was founded in Paris, France, March 15-17, 1919. It was granted a charter by the Congress of the United States on September 16, 1919. The Charter was amended in 1942 to make World War II veterans eligible for membership and again in December, 1950, to include Korean veterans.

There are 17,424 American Legion Posts in the 48 states, the District of Columbia and 10 foreign departments. Among the Legion's most distinguished members are the President of the United States, four members of his cabinet, six Supreme Court justices, 45 United States senators, 205 congressmen and 32 governors.

The American Legion is largely responsible for the creation of the Veterans Administration with its nationwide network of 153 veterans hospitals. Legion representatives regularly visit each VA installation to assure that disabled veterans continue to receive the finest medical care.

The American Legion is a young man's organization. About two-thirds of its members are veterans of World War II. The "GI Bill of Rights" was conceived and sponsored in Congress by the American Legion. As a result of this legislative achievement by the Legion, millions of World War II veterans received college education, learned a trade, or took on-the-job training. Others secured loans to buy homes or start businesses. The American Legion is pledged to secure the same benefits for Korean veterans and other members of the armed forces subsequent to June 25, 1950.

The American Legion has a staff of specialists to serve Legionnaires everywhere. Experts on claims, insurance, hospitalization, child welfare, employment and legislation represent individual veterans before government and safeguard the interests of all of America's former fighting men.

American Legion Posts sponsor 16,000 junior baseball teams. Boys who play ball with the Legion develop sound physiques as well as a sense of fair play and good sportsmanship. Through its Back to God program The American Legion encourages regular attendance at church, family prayer and devotion, and the religious training of children.

"A Square Deal for Every Child" is the motto of the American Legion's Child Welfare Program. During the past year, The American Legion provided food, clothing and medical care for 175,000 dependent children in 60,000 families. A portion of every Legionnaire's dues is set aside for this important work.

More than 300,000 students participate in The American Legion's annual high school oratorical contest. These teen-age boys and girls prepare original orations based on their study of the American Constitution and Bill of Rights. More than 4,500 Boy Scout troops are sponsored by American Legion Posts.

The four basic programs of The American Legion - rehabilitation, Child Welfare, National Security and Americanism—deserve the active support of all former servicemen. An honorably - discharged veteran need not have served overseas to belong to The American Legion. There is an American Legion Post in virtually every community from coast-to-coast. No veteran need be far away from the comradeship and help of The American Legion. His membership card is honored everywhere.

From time to time American Legion Posts receive notices of jobs available to veterans or where veterans receive preference on certain jobs. At the present time, the Department of State Civil Service, State of Louisiana has job vacancies in some of its departments with pay ranging from $255.00 to $350.00 per month. These jobs carry military preference. Information can be obtained from your local Legion Post Commander.

You as a veteran can share in the Legion programs. You can become a Legionnaire.

An Important Announcement

Editor,
Morning World
Gentlemen:

Several businessmen have discussed with me the possibilities of promoting several industries for Ouachita Parish, even though, some of them may be small.

There is no use for the businessman to draw up into his shell like a tortoise because Selman Field did not come to Monroe. A few industrial plants could mean several times as much to us as Selman Field would have. Why not call a general meeting of all business people in the parish from the smallest to the largest, and get to work.

The committee that had worked on Selman Field did a good job. I would suggest that we ask them, along with some others that could be selected, to spearhead this movement. It would not cost any of the businessmen but a small percentage of what was raised for Selman Field to put this over in a big way. Why not let's all get together and quit talking about business being bad, and make it good.

"Don't live in the past, let's live for the future."

Respectfully yours,

Open Letter To Washington

Albemarle, N. C.

Editor, Morning World:

This is an open letter to the present administration in Washington, directed particularly to those concerned with our foreign policy. The American people today are deeply concerned as to the future of our country, and are greatly disturbed by the attitudes of some of our so-called allies in United Nations. We have just concluded a truce with a puppet regime in Korea that has no authority except that which is invested in it when Peiping and Moscow leaders pull the strings. It is a negotiated truce that appeased our enemies and caused us to lose the respect of the free peoples in all parts of the world.

The treacherous Communist leaders never give any consideration to the right and honorable thing in their dealings with other peoples. They are a godless horde whose only plan is to dominate the world and place under bondage the free peoples of the world.

I believe that the majority of the thinking people of this nation think that we should immediately notify the Chinese and Russian Communist leaders that if this truce is violated, we will not only blockade the entire China coast, but we will also use atomic weapons to destroy their war industries in North Korea, Manchuria, and China proper. We should also notify Red China and Russia that we will do all within our power to keep Red China, who has signed no truce but who is a proven enemy of United Nations, out of that organization until she has proved that she will pursue a peaceful course in the world.

It is time for our leaders to speak and act with vision and courage.

Our Land Of Gold

Editor, Morning World,
Monroe, La.

Dear Sir:

Too often Americans forget the chasm between our living standards and Europe's. In Greece, an American asked for an English speaking chauffeur. "25 per cent higher wages." 40 cents daily raised to 50 cents. This driver had lived in California. His brother's wife there ordered food over a telephone, cooked with gas, got water through a faucet. The wife in Greece had to haggle at a market for a quarter hour to buy a fish. Fuel came only through picking up dead olive twigs. Water was carried by jar on head, Rebecca like, from the village well a half mile away. Any wonder such folk break laws to enter our "Land of Gold."

Having been Senator during the California legislature's discussion of the Japanese Land Holding Act, I glimpsed in the behind-the-closed-doors session the interplay of diplomatic forces. Secretary of State, Wm. J. Bryan, was sent out from Washington to stop the passage of the Act. Governor Hiram Johnson was determined to end further colonization of Japanese in the rich agricultural districts. He was convinced the American standard of living would go down in competition with those whose daily wages were not more than one to three per cent of the daily wage of our transient agricultural worker, to say nothing of the living standard of the small farmer trying to raise and educate three or four children.

EDWIN GRANT.

Thanks

Dear Friends:

I cannot find the right words to express my sincere thanks and appreciation for the kindness that the people of Monroe have shown me this past week in giving to me such a fine automobile. I have tried to do the work that I love so much. The kindness that has been shown to me will give me that push to do more things for the young people of our community.

To all my many friends I say thank you from the bottom of my heart.

Timmons In Washington

By Bascom N. Timmons

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The usual overflow of conflicting opinion about Soviet military strength, following Premier Malenkov's announcement that Russia can produce the H-bomb, has brought from an intelligent 23-year-old a question as to what his age group may expect by 1975, when they will reach the ripe age of 45.

That question has been thoroughly weighed in numerous Washington discussions, with widely differing answers. Hard facts adduced during the nine months of the Eisenhower administration tend to alter conclusions somewhat, as a result of Stalin's death on the Russian side and the grim disclosure on the American side that this nation to survive must remain on the defensive against the Communist world for an unpredictable period, with little reduction in our tremendous military budget.

Nations which take their cue from the United States, including members of NATO, are shaping their policy more and more to get along with the Communist countries. The best evidence is the general willingness of free world nations to admit Red China to the United Nations. This proposal may reach a showdown within the next year, the State Department concedes.

Admission of the Chinese Communists would be a gesture of appeasement which would render the U. N. virtually useless as a shield against acts of aggression by the Communist powers against the free world, in the view of the United States government.

Thus far the United Nations has been of little service as a bulwark against war, according to realist opinion. Barring a Communist world sweep, it will probably be in existence in 1975, those closest to it think, but they concede the U.N. may have dropped to the level of an international exchange bureau to which some international non-military problems can be submitted for settlement.

On the military side, the young man's question can only be answered with one demonstrated fact in mind, military experts believe. The present rulers of Russia and China are determined to destroy the government of the United States, no matter how long it requires. They evidently believe they have the world's greatest "capitalist" nation in retreat. As Stalin predicted, so the Moscow and Peiping cliques are now convinced that a financial collapse and another depression in this country are inevitable. That will be the time to crack down on the United States, the Communist planners are confident.

Despite the predictions of some scientists that the beginning of World War III will come with a surprise Russian air attack on many U. S. objectives, military students do not agree. Though Red propaganda says otherwise, the Russians know the U. S. is a fighting nation, able to destroy as much of Russia by air as the Red planes which could penetrate our defenses could of the United States.

In military staff conferences, constant reference is made to the increasing military strength of China, and the perilous position in which the United States would find itself under attack from both Communist powers.

From now on, the United States must prepare to defend itself both east and west, with increasing aid from Canada, but not much from the Latin-American countries, the conferees have concluded. The military budget may be increased rather than reduced. That prospect will come into focus when the White House tax proposals, including possible increases, are submitted to Congress next year.

Congress henceforth must assume the responsibility of keeping the United States in readiness to resist the Communist nut cracker, in which this country could be caught by air from three sides. Moscow knows this nut is tough, couldn't trust its military forces in this country, according to the diplomatic grapevine. That is the outlook in 1953, but it could be vastly changed in 1975.

The alternate answer can be disposed of briefly. Optimists think that there will be inside crackups in both Communist nations, sparked by revolts in the satellites of Europe and the provinces of China. So far, that is wishful thinking. And when the uprising in East Germany began, the United States took no action, although State Department files were said to be full of plans. We did, however, relieve a couple of high ranking officials because they did nothing. The food gifts have had some effect, but that alone will not break the Communist grip on Central Europe.

M'Carthy Asks Editors To Investigate Critic

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) called on a group of newspaper editors today to investigate his charge that James Russell Wiggins, managing editor of the Washington Post and a critic of McCarthy, has "prostituted and endangered" freedom of the press.

Wiggins immediately issued a statement saying nothing would please him more than to have a study made of the Post's "full, accurate and fair news coverage of and editorial comment on the public career of Sen. McCarthy." He accused McCarthy of "evading the issues."

Wiggins was chairman of a special committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors which studied the question whether McCarthy's closed-door questioning of James A. Wechsler, editor of the New York Post, threatened freedom of the press.

The 11-member ASNE committee issued a report earlier in the week saying in effect that, after a 2-month study, they had failed to agree on any clear-cut answer.

However, four of the editors, including Wiggins, submitted a separate statement calling the interrogation of Wechsler a definite threat to freedom of the press.

The letter McCarthy made public today was addressed to the seven members of the ASNE committee who did not sign the minority statement—Paul Block Jr., co-publisher of the Toledo (Ohio) Blade and the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette; Raymond L. Crowley, managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch; William H. Fitzpatrick, associate editor of the Wall Street Journal; George W. Healy Jr., editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune; L. D. Hotchkiss, editor of the Los Angeles Times; Joseph W. Lee, editorial director of the Topeka (Kan.) State Journal, and James S. Pope, executive editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times.

Editors who joined with Wiggins in criticizing McCarthy were Herbert Bruckner, editor of the Hartford (Conn) Courant; William M. Tugman, editor of the Eugene (Ore) Register-Guard, and Eugene S. Pulliam Jr., managing editor of the Indianapolis News.

Enclosed with McCarthy's letter to the seven editors was an Aug. 13 editorial from the Washington Post referring to the ASNE report and to the questioning of Wechsler last April 24 and May 5 by the Senate investigation subcommittee headed by McCarthy.

The editorial said Wechsler was summoned before the subcommittee under the pretext of questioning about books of his in the State Department's overseas libraries but that he "was subjected to intensive interrogation about editorials in his newspaper critical of Sen. McCarthy."

McCarthy's letter to the seven editors said that, since they had examined the testimony, they would "readily recognize the complete and deliberate falsity" of this charge.

"Obviously, it would have been improper to call an editor for the purpose of questioning him about editorials critical of the chairman of the committee," McCarthy wrote.

The Wisconsin senator has maintained that Wechsler, one of his severest critics, was summoned for questioning as part of the subcommittees probe of the overseas information program.

An acknowledged former Communist, Wechsler testified he quit the Communist party in 1927 at the age of 22 and has opposed it actively ever since.

McCarthy's letter to the editors said he was sure they would agree with him that the statement in the Washington Post editorial "could not have been a honest mistake but rather a deliberate and dishonest attempt to deceive the public."

Classes in the conference, directed by Lawrence Herkimer, a former four-year Southern Methodist University cheerleader comprised tumbling and workshops for preparation of yells. Nine of the girls were from Louisiana, while the others were from Texas.

The campaign for sponsors, patrons and members for the 1953-54 season is now well under way, directed by Mrs. H. C. Mayo, vice-president; and Mrs. R. L. Ross, campaign chairman.

Invitations to join are being sent out to local music lovers and others who wish to advance cultural events in Monroe and West Monroe. Already the past season, Dr. Harry Lemert, head of the music department at Northeast State, presented his new symphony group in a concert that was well received. Success of this concert has aided greatly in winning friends for the movement looking to the formation of a permanent symphony organization here.

Saturday, August 15, was a memorable day in the life of Rabbi F. K. Hirsch. Just 25 years ago he came to Monroe to head Temple B'Nai Israel. He came from Sumter, S. C., and wasn't quite sure how he would like Monroe or how Monroe would like him.

One of his churchmen, Dave Silverstein, told him: "If you are able to stay on here for two years, you will be good to remain the rest of your life!" The rabbi admits now that Mr. Silverstein was a good prophet.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15—UP—Maj. William B. Cox, executive officer of New Orleans' 204th AAA Group of the Louisiana National Guard, said Saturday that some 600 officers and men of the 204th have been selected to supervise training of 3,500 Guardsmen of Louisiana, Texas and New Mexico at a two-week encampment at Ft. Sailor Wounded In Great Lakes Mass Brig Break

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Aug. 15 (AP)—A sailor was shot and seriously wounded today in a mass break from the brig at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station three shotos from a carbine, two of them were recaptured.

Navy officials said Allen R. Westfahl, 1, of Neenah, Wis., was shot in the groin and also suffered a scalp wound when he attempted to scale a 15-foot wire fence topped by two feet of barbed wire surrounding the brig.

The bullet later was removed in the naval hospital and he is expected to recover.

A sentry opened fire on Westfahl from 150 yards away. He fired three shos from a carbine, two of them striking the sailor.

A search party flushed out Marine Pvt. August Wegner, 20, of Worth, Ill., and Donald Bill Branch, 20, of Granite City, Ill., an apprentice seaman, a few hours after their break at 8:30 a.m. they had been hiding in a swampy woodland area south of the station.

Still sought were John Smith, 17, of Chicago and William M. Lauver, 19, of Lewistown, Pa.

Officials said the five men involved had been hanging out laundry in the stockade. Suddenly they ran to the fence and started scampering up, in monkey fashion.

American POWs With Red Tieup May Face Charges

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell said today that American prisoners of war who collaborated with their Communist captors in Korea may face charges of treason.

Brownell said at a press conference that the Justice Department will "study applicable laws and ascertain whether we will be warranted in prosecuting these men."

A few American POWs have been bitterly denounced by other POWs already released for allegedly collaborating with Reds in Korean prison camps in return for preferential treatment.

"I do not have sufficient reports to act on yet," Brownell said. "I have no facts in my possession. There is a possibility of either military trial or prosecution by the Justice Department."

countries to serve as conference members in their individual capacities. Separate clauses would cover Russia and India and let the entire 60-nation U. N. assembly make a final decision on each. The United States would not appear as a sponsor of this kind of resolution.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate, told newsmen "we are rapidly reaching an area of agreement on many subjects." He declined to discuss details of the near-agreement but he left an impression that the United States had backed down on insistence that the Russians must be nominated by the Communist side.

Selwyn Lloyd, British minister of state, and Maurice Schumann, French under secretary of state for foreign affairs, flanked Lodge at the brief news conference and appeared to be in smiling agreement with him.

Other delegates in private statements confirmed that the group had made substantial progress on agreement. "The situation is much better than at this time yesterday," one said.

The U. S. position up to now has been that Russia should not be delegated to represent the United Nations at the conference. Lodge has said that if the North Korean and Chinese Communists want to nominate Russia—linking her with the aggressors—that would be all right.

Britain, anxious for international Big Four and any other meetings where they can get Russia across a conference table, has insisted that Russia must be nominated as a peace conference participant by the U. N. in some manner. They have made it plain that they consider any peace conference with Russia absent as unrealistic. Canada and France have sided with them.

Red Chinese

They told of meeting the Red Cross team which, under the armistice agreement, was allowed to aid Allied prisoners on their way to freedom.

The truce agreement also permits a Red Cross team composed of Communist and Allied representatives to comfort Red prisoners being repatriated by the Allies.

Peiping Communist radio said Saturday the Allies had interfered with the work of the Red Cross team in South Korea. The broadcast said the Communists had lodged a protest with the repatriation commission.

Salerno said that when the freedom-bound Allies reached Kaesong Friday night a Chinese interpreter called him aside and told him to tell the Red Cross team stories of good treatment in the POW camp. The Chinese said that the American's story would support those told by British repatriates.

Salerno said the Chinese warned him that "they might hold me back unless I did" what he was told to do.

"I refused," Salerno said.

Blackburn said the Chinese told him that if he didn't do as requested "it would interfere with our repatriation."

He said he felt that he had to go see the Red Cross workers and he went in with seven British men, but "I never opened my mouth. The British did all the talking."

Pfc. Ernest R. Rodriguez, 23, of Watkins, Colo., said he talked with an Australian member of the Red Cross team at Kaesong Friday night but he couldn't say what he wanted to.

"There were so many English-speaking Chinese around that if I had said the things I wanted I probably wouldn't be here today," Rodriguez said.

Stories of trumped-up Red charges against Allied prisoners and the jailing of the men at Camp 1 were told by Pfc. George Pennington of Augusta, Ga., Pfc. Thomas R. Peasner Jr., 23, of Lancaster, Tex., and Cpl. Bernard Renouf of West Hartford, Conn.

The United Nations Command representatives on the repatriation commission told their Communist counterparts Friday that all Allied prisoners who desire repatriation must be returned. The U. N. said the truce agreement allowed no exceptions.

Renouf said six or seven Americans at Camp 1 had received sentences ranging from one to three years and had been removed from the camp about the time of the armistice July 27.

He said the charges against the men were "nothing but suspicions," and added: "I guess they were considered more hostile to the Chinese than the others."

Sgt. Wayne Cunningham of Wampum, Pa., said three Americans refused to leave the camp for home. He called them "progressives," the name applied by previous repatriates to men they said had swallowed the Communist propaganda line drummed at them.

Cunningham said he believed about 5 per cent of the 200 men in his company had turned "pros," and he thought this included some who had "squealed" on their buddies.

Pfc. Robert T. Schaefer of Lebanon, Ky., said he doubted that all the "progressives" actually had turned Communist, but that "quite a few of them were just riding the gravy train."

Schaefer said the "progressives" received small favors such as cigarettes and candy from the Chinese.

Niagara Claims 4 Suicides In 2 Days

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—Four bodies were pulled from the Niagara River yesterday and Thursday, and authorities listed all four as suicides.

The average number of bodies recovered from waters near this honeymoon resort during the summer is one a week. All this week's were believed residents of this area.

One was a 75-year-old woman, Mrs. Nora Schroyer of suburban Kenmore, who just before she leaped, mailed an envelope to her daughter containing only a $5 bill and three postage stamps.

Gas Line Blasted For 34th Time In Elizabeth Region

ELIZABETH, La., Aug. 15 (AP)—The natural gas line supplying this strike-troubled Southwest Louisiana paper mill community was dynamited again last night—for the 34th time.

Service was restored after repairs were completed about 7:30 a. m.

State police said the blasting, the second in two nights, happened near Oakdale, about eight miles east of Elizabeth.

Dynamiting of the line has highlighted violence in the 11-month strike at the Calcasieu Paper Co. and Southern Industries Inc. The mills have been operating with non-union labor.

The unions representing the strikers are the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Papermill Workers and the International Brotherhood of Papermakers, both AFL.

tion limitation will continue to serve as encouragement of foreign employment of technicians and skilled workers, but will be sufficient to correct abuses which sprang up under the old law.

The Senate Finance Committee, in recommending the change, asserted:

"Some individuals with large earnings have seized upon the (old) provision as an inducement to go abroad to perform services, which were customarily performed at home, for the primary purpose of avoiding the federal income taxes.

"It has also been ascertained that in many cases Americans taking advantage of this provision do not pay any income tax even to the foreign country or countries in which the income is earned."

The foreign income limitation was one of a number of technical and non-controversial tax provisions included in the bill passed before Congress adjourned. The law is known as the Technical Changes Act of 1953.

Few taxpayers are affected by most of the changes, one of which extends to Jan. 1, 1955, certain tax exemptions on the estates of members of the armed services who die as the result of combat wounds.

The law also contains a provision designed to encourage the construction of new grain storage facilities. It provides a special 60-month amortization deduction for such facilities completed after 1952 and before 1957.

1800's and the early twentieth century one ...atest killers in the south disease yellow fever. Epi... swept through the country ...odically, bringing fear, death ...d sorrow to the people.

One of the hardest hit towns in Louisiana was Tallulah. 1866, 1874, 1878 and 1905 were the worst years. In 1905 the epidemic was confined almost solely to the town itself. The disease was of virulant type and there were 170 cases reported with 23 deaths.

Conditions were so serious that the sympathy of the whole country was aroused. A number of doctors and nurses came in to help care for the fever victims.

One of these was Dr. Lomax Anderson of Port Gibson, Miss. Dr. Anderson was an energetic, conscientious man who never refused to give aid to his fellow man when he was asked to do so.

"If only we had some cure . . . some preventive measure could be employed," he said to himself as he went, hollow - eyed and weary, from one patient to another along the streets of Tallulah.

Then the day came when Dr. Anderson was running a fever himself. At last he was forced to discontinue his visits to his patients and, just as he had been unable to save some of them, his colleagues were unable to save him. Their knowledge of the disease was completely inadequate.

Before the end of the summer the number of cases had increased so rapidly that health authorities ordered the town evacuated and those residents not ill with the fever were taken away on relief trains.

They returned later and the 1905 epidemic was the last serious one to strike the town. With the discovery that the mosquito carried the germ of yellow fever came the means of wiping out the disease by destroying the insects. Tallulah is said to have been the first town in the country to conquer yellow fever by the use of scientific principles.

The discovery had come too late for Dr. Anderson but he remains one of northeast Louisiana's heroes. Along with Dr. Anderson, two other men, citizens of Tallulah, are remembered for their work in the last epidemic and in the final defeat of the disease. There were Dr. George Ogbourne, who also served as mayor for many years, and Dr. George W. Gaines.

7 Negroes Drown; Bodies Of Three Found At Helena

HELENA, Ark., Aug. 14 (AP)—Bodies of three of seven Negroes who drowned in separate but connected Mississippi River accidents here were recovered this morning.

Officers said it would be useless to search for bodies of two children whose drowning led to the death of five others. The youngsters went down in the main channel and were believed to have been washed far downstream.

Deputy Sheriff Clay Oliver, said W. M. Guinn, 13, and Norah Bud Hatchett, 14, drowned while playing in the river yesterday afternoon.

About 7:45 last night, a motorboat carrying five Negroes capsized in the Helena harbor as searching operations were begun.

Recovered in the harbor today were the bodies of Sam Mays, Mary Scallion and Louise Foreman.

Officers continued grappling for the bodies of the other two occupants of the boat, identified as Henry Washington and Johnny Guinn, a brother of W. M. Guinn.

Former Shreveport Mayor Is Dead At 61

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 15—UP—Sam Caldwell, mayor of Shreveport for three terms from 1934-1946, died Friday night of a heart ailment at the age of 61.

Caldwell ran for governor in 1944 but was beaten by Jimmy Davis. He was vice president of the Louisiana division of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association after leaving office. He retired last week.

Ike's Ability To Relax One Chief Asset

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower's knack of shunting state problems temporarily into one corner of his mind while he concentrates on golf or trout fishing is a side of his personality which doesn't often show in Washington.

At his vacation headquarters here, that ability to relax in the face of the tremendous strain of the presidency is the subject of much conversation.

On Monday, for example, he discussed one of the most serious problems with Secretary of State Dulles—the idea of American retaliation if the Chinese Communists and the North Korean Reds refuse to release some U.S. prisoners of war.

An hour later, Eisenhower was battling par on the Denver Cherry Hills course with the intensity of a professional whose income depended on the outcime of the golf game.

The next day it was the same way. Adm. Arthur W. Radford, the incoming chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, gave the President an important briefing on the world military situation.

A bit later, Eisenhower was on the golf course, giving as much attention to whether to use an 8 or 9 iron to avoid that trap around the green as he had shortly before to Radford's report.

The next day he signed 20 pieces of legislation into law, and aides reported that he studied each measure—most of them of secondary importance—as thoroughly as he does the most important bills.

Then he set out for the Colorado Rockies and had the time of his life casting for trout. Watching him there in the trout stream an aide wondered just how Eisenhower did it.

"I know he's just as deeply concerned now as he was a couple hours ago," said the aide, "but he has a wonderful knack of storing the problem away as he fishes, as he is doing now, and then coming up with the answer when he gets back to his desk."

Last night, it was business again. The President had dinner with two aides who flew in from Washington during the afternoon —Special Counsel Bernard M. Shanley, and Robert J. Cutler, White House liaison man with the National Security Council.

'Hereins' Not In Leeds' Language

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—UP—Daphne Leeds is a lawyer who can put things into English without so much as a single "whereas" or "herein."

That's why I think she will get along nobly as assistant commissioner of patents—a business in which the complicated language leads the common man to the nearest Webster. Mrs. Leeds has been sworn into her new job, but actually won't take office until the end of the month.

Daphne Leeds is a native of Illinois and she talks the plain talk of that state. She ought to be able to describe a patent so a man can understand it. To her a toothpick is a toothpick and not "a device for cleansing the incisors."

Actually, her job will be to hear, consider, and decide appeals from the rulings of the trade mark examining corps of the patent office.

If I know Mrs. Leeds, and I do, she will tackle her job in a legal sort of way, and still keep her reports down to earth.

The lady, who now calls Atlantic City, N. J., home, is the wife of Robert W. Leeds, part owner of the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotels in the city by the sea. She is no novice in the legal profession.

She attended the University of Illinois and then scooted off to Georgia to prepare for her bar examinations. While she was preparing she took a flier at teaching school for a couple of years.

Later she became an expert on trade marks, the author of a number of books in that field and served on congressional committees which drafted the Trade Mark Act of 1946. That's the basic law under which trade marks now are registered. She joined the legal staff of the Coca Cola Co. in 1937 and later became the assistant counsel.

A past president of the National Association of Women Lawyers and onetime president of the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers, she also is licensed to practice before the United States Supreme Court.

Incidentally her work in Georgia had no effect on her accent. She still "talks Illinois." Morever, she says "I don't see any point in putting things into half a dozen syllables when one or two usually serve the purpose."

Morehouse To Use New Voting Machines Soon

Within a few weeks primary elections will be held in two parishes which will be using voting machines for the first time.

Members of the house of representatives are to be chosen from the parishes of West Baton Rouge and Morehouse where men elected in 1952 have resigned. The general election date has been set for November 3 in both cases. The primaries will be held soon.

Gov. Kennon says that when the voters of West Baton Rouge and Morehouse parishes go to the polls in these elections, "they will be benefiting from one of the major campaign promises made in the last governor's race. I told the people that, if elected, I would see that voting machines were made available to all the people."

"The legislature went along with that campaign promise. One of the first major appropriation bills to clear the 1952 legislature was one for $3,000,000 to pay for voting machines. Thus, this promise was made good early in the session.

"Several months ago the board to purchase voting machines received bids and awarded contracts for enough machines to serve the sections of the state which did not use them. Some of those machines have already been delivered and more are coming in right along.

"When all the machines are delivered, Louisiana will go the front rank of states in the union which are using voting machines. At the present time, only three other states use them statewide. They are New York, Connecticut and Rhode Island. Louisiana will join them in the next election.

"In the recent special session, the legislature approved a bill to permit use of the voting machines as soon as they are available for any special elections that might be called.

"The machines which can be used in West Baton Rouge parish have already been received, according to the office of secretary of state, Wade O. Martin, Jr. Those for use in Morehouse parish were scheduled for shipment to arrive by August 18. So, under the new law, both parishes will be able to use them in the coming special elections.

"Incidentally, in Morehouse Parish, the state is to have the first use of the horizontal type voting machine. Heretofore, a vertical machine has been used in all elections. But neither of the two companies manufacturing voting machines could provide enough to meet the needs of Louisiana within the time required. So about an equal amount was purchased from each.

"The machines provide a fast, accurate and sound system for conducting elections. It is my belief that all citizens of Louisiana will find satisfaction in their use throughout the state and will be happy that the voters of West Baton Rouge and Morehouse Parishes have an opportunity to use them in their coming elections."

Russell B. Long Still Senate's 'Baby' Member

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—UP—Sen. Russell B. Long, still the Senate's "baby" member after more than four years in office, says his youth has never been a handicap in the nation's top legislative body.

"It's is not much of a problem," the 34-year-old Louisiana Democrat said. "The first time you run, it is a handicap but after that, it's actually an advantage."

Long, son of the famous "Kingfish," Huey Long, was elected to the Senate one day before his 30th birthday in 1948. He had to turn 30 before he could be sworn in.

He said even the Senate's most experienced and oldest members have never made any point of his age.

"If you make a practice of knowing what you're talking about, you won't have much trouble," he added. "In fact, the oldest fellows were the easiest to get along with when I first came, probably because I felt toward them the respect they had earned. I found them very considerate and very helpful."

Long, who looks more like his late father every year, is known as one of the Senate's hardest-working members. He takes his job seriously and has made a name for himself by doing exhaustive research on subjects in which he takes special interest.

No Filibuster Designs

He has no designs on his father's reputation for filibustering. He takes full part in debate when he is interested in legislation but is not one of the Senate's so-called windbags.

Long said he found campaigning his state for the Senate was less wearing than running for campus office at Louisiana State University.

"I gained weight running for senator; I lost a pound a day running for student body president," he said.

When political opponents make an issue of his age, Long replies he has "lifelong experience" in politics because he was literally born into one of his father's first campaigns—for Louisiana railroad commissioner.

"I was born two days before the election and, because of the excitement and commotion, nobody paid any attention to me. I was five days old before anybody got around to even buying diapers for me."

W. C. Honeycutt First To Retire At NE State

The first faculty member to retire from Northeast State College is W. C. Honeycutt, assistant professor of history. His retirement came at the end of the summer school session on Aug. 8. Under the law, a college teacher may retire at the age of 65 or at the end of 30 years' service.

Originally from Alexandria, Honeycutt came to the Northeast campus in 1939 as an instructor in history, and prior to this he had held positions at Centenary College in Shreveport, Louisiana Tech, and was high school principal in Converse, Hall Summit, Bonita and Leesville, at various years. He received degrees from both Centenary and Louisiana State University.

Being quite active on various faculty committees, which includes the presidency of the college unit of the Louisiana Education Association, and also a delegate to the LEA convention several times as a Northeast representative, Honeycutt still found time to cultivate some interesting hobbies.

His hobbies consist of fishing, flower cultivation, woodwork and the construction of bird houses. The speaker's stand at Northeast College represents some of his talent. In the back yard of his home on top of his garage is a neatly constructed bird house, which was recently habitated by some Purple Martins. The flowers which surround his house show evidence that he has much success with his cultivation hobby also.

When asked if there was any difference between students now and when he first started teaching, Honeycutt replied, "There is no essential difference between them. However, the student of today is affected by many more external things."

Mr. Honeycutt also stated that when he first began teaching school he walked four miles to a one-room country school house, and that he only received $40 a month.

Father of three grown children, Honeycutt is a member of the Methodist Church, the Masonic Lodge, and is active in various civic affairs.

His retirement from teaching will not leave him an idle man, however. He is the local representative of the Pan American Life Insurance Company of New Orleans, La. Mr. Honeycutt has received several awards of service from this company and he will continue to sell insurance in Monroe.

Public Apathy Is Going To Sink Our Oldest Vessel

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—UP—Public apathy may do what the guns of enemy fleets never could—sink the Frigate Constellation, America's oldest warship.

The once-might ship now sits ungracefully in the Navy Yard at Charlestown, Mass., her mast gone and her hull rotting away.

The Navy wants no more of the ship that fought in four wars and earned from the French the nickname, "The Yankee Racehorse." It is not that the Navy lacks sentiment for the 146-year-old vessel, rather, it lacks the money to save it.

To restore the Constellation as a shrine of the Navy's past would require rebuilding the ship from stem to stern—a job the Navy estimates would cost at least $4,525,000. Neither Congress nor the public has seen fit to contribute that much money.

The past 40 years there have been periodic projects to save the old ship, which was launched in Baltimore Sept. 7, 1797. Each failed.

The latest restoration drive was in 1948. Congress passed legislation authorizing the Navy to repair the ship—but only if it could raise at least 75 per cent of the costs through contributions.

The Navy got only $65 from the public and a year later quietly returned it. A recent surge of interest in the old frigate, has set off a new trickle of contributions. The Navy now has $85 in a new fund contributed mostly by school children.

Such drives having failed, the Navy this year proposed legislation to scuttle the ship, but Congress did not act upon it.

The same fate that threatens the Constellation once hung over her sister ship, the Constitution. The Navy got set to scrap "Old Ironsides," but the ship was saved when Oliver Wendell Homes drummed up public sympathy with his famous poem beginning, "Ay, tear her tattered ensign down."

Some Solons Singing The Patronage Blues

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 (AP)—Despite two moves by President Eisenhower to make government jobs for Republicans more plentiful, some GOP senators are still singing the patronage blues.

The jobs simply are not opening up as fast as they would like, these legislators say. They say they are worried by countless requests for jobs from Republicans while thousands of Democrats remain on the federal payroll under civil service protection granted by previous administrations.

Sen. Watkins (R-Utah) put it this way to a reporter:

"One of the cleverest and most effective jobs done by the Democrats in their 20 years in office was to make a Democrat spoils system permanent."

Back on April 1, the President signed an executive order stripping civil service protection from what a White House secretary called "more than several hundred" government policy-making jobs. He thus opened the way for presidential appointment to these key places filled during the 20 years the Democrats were in power with persons later blanketed into the merit system without competitive examination.

Then, on June 25, the President issued another order removing civil service protection from thousands of federal jobs held by socalled "specialists" and including hundreds of attorneys. This order called for a review—still under way—of about 134,000 jobs to see which should no longer come under the merit system. Veterans, holding an estimated 60 per of these jobs, were exempted.

To illustrate his complaint today, Sen. Watkins said 33,000 workers make their living in his state by federal employment. They work at government installations, in postoffices, in regional offices of the reclamation bureau, the soil conservation service, and other federal agencies.

So far, Watkins said, he has placed just two Republicans in office in Utah, a U. S. marshall and a U. S. attorney.

Watkins said the Democrats set up a lot of new agencies under former Presidents Roosevelt and Truman and filled them, with congressional approval, without regard to civil service laws.

"But later," he said, "these agencies were put under civil service. The trouble was, they had already been packed by Democrats."

One senator, asking not to be quoted by name, said party workers in his state are wearing the corridor thin outside his office here in quest of jobs.

"What can I do?" he asked? "Nothing. I just have to tell them, things may get better."

...mier ...l Term

...g. 15 (AP)—Italy's post-...cial recovery boss, Gui-...ella, agreed tonight to be ...rt-term premier with a soft-...al on politics to pull the coun-...y out of its budget crisis.

He acknowledged that his new government would be short-lived.

Premier Pella named a Cabinet that omitted former Premier Alcide de Gasperi, who had been expected to be his foreign minister.

De Gasperi had presided over eight postwar Cabinets in Italy's recovery from the Mussolini debacle and had been foreign minister the last four years.

Pella, 51, told President Luigi Einaudi he would take for himself the presidency of the council and the ministries of foreign affairs and the budget.

Pella said he would present his new ministers to be sworn in on Monday. The new Cabinet, put together after a 19-day government crisis, faces its test for life in the Senate and Chamber of Deputies Tuesday or Wednesday.

Pella indicated clearly he expects his new government to be only a temporary one to deal with Italy's urgent budget matters and seek to avoid a clash in Parliament on bitter political cleavages.

He said he tried to form the government of "experts." Called into it were many of the ministers of De Gasperi's last Christian Democrat Cabinet. No other parties got Cabinet posts.

"Many whom I asked to serve refused to underatke this new fatigue," Pella said.

That was believed to refer especially to De Gasperi. It was understood he wanted more rest before going back into Italy's political battle.

Negro Man's Body Found In Bayou

Bayou DeSiard claimed another life yesterday morning.

Cleveland Cooper, 68, Negro, who lived on the bayou near Loop Road, was reported to have left his home about 5 a.m. to go fishing. At 8 o'clock members of his family saw the empty boat floating near the pier from which Cooper, a retired United Gas Company employee, rented boats.

A search for the missing man got underway immediately, and at 10:20, unable to find Cooper's body, T. B. Lundy, 701 Matthews Street put in a call for the American Legion rescue truck. Firemen dragged the bayou for nearly four hours before the body was brought to the surface.

A diabetic, Cooper was believed to have suffered an attack while fishing and fallen into the water. His body was taken to Acme Funeral Home.

Since his retirement, after 35 years of service with the gas company, Cooper has been living on a pension and money received from renting boats.

Randolph Faces Union Showdown On Publications

DETROIT, Aug. 15 (AP) — President Woodruff Randolph of the International Typographical Union prepared today for a showdown battle with harsh critics of his union's venture into the publishing business.

The emphasis Randolph put on this issue in his speech opening the ITU's 95th convention today indicated this would dwarf other matters in the six-day session.

Randolph vigorously defended the union's policy of helping to finance opposition newspapers in cities where some of its 86,000 members are on strike. He said it is the "only effective weapon" against struck publishers.

The union currently is sponsoring publications in a dozen cities under the incorporated name, "Unitypo." It also operates the "New Newspaper Service" to provide them a digest of news.

"Operating this chain of newspapers is not a pleasurable business for members of the (union's) executive council," Randolph told the more than 400 delegates.

"I want to say categorically that if we had any other effective weapon I would like to get out from under that kind of burden."

Critics of the policy have complained that the publishing and other "defense" activities cost the union $2,799,356 in the fiscal year ended May 20, and that the publishing venture alone lost $63,060.70 for the union in the year ended last Dec. 31.

A move has been launched by the ITU's Dallas local to get the convention to bypass the publishing issue and leave it for a referendum of members to decide.

Randolph told reports today that this move "could complicate" the issue. But he said he wants the convention to take a strong stand on the matter now.

A report by the union's defense committee strongly supporting the policy is scheduled for debate the middle of next week. A resolution backing that up is expected to hit the convention floor a short time through Friday.

Shallow Oil Is Found In Ala.

HODGES, Ala., Aug. 15 — (AP) — Discovery of oil-bearing limestone at a very shallow depth gave new hope of early oil production in this North Alabama area today.

The discovery was made in the Bangor lime, at 513 to 529 feet depth in the W. W. Bedfold, one of the James L. Duffy tests in this area.

The well, Duffy said, will go through the Hartselle sands and the Trenton lime into the Knox dolemite formation, expected to be reached at about 2700 or 2800 feet. If oil is not found in commercial quantities at those depths, Duffy will attempt to bring the well in as a producer from the bangor lime.

The well is in Franklin County, about three miles west of Hodges. Shows of oil have been found in other tests in this area, but no producers have been brought in.

Oil Hearing Set

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 14 (AP)—The state Department of Conservation today added two more public hearings to a series scheduled for Sept. 10 in Lake Charles.

The additional hearings will concern proposed operations in the northwest Branch and South Lewisburg oil fields.

The department also issued an order permitting dual completion of a well in the Vaughn and "D" sands of Ruston field.

Stock Market In Moderate Decline

Most of the loss was concentrated in the railroads, but also lower were steels, motors, oils, coppers, rubbers, chemicals, distillers, building materials, and radio-television shares.

The decline extended to around 2 points in significant areas with most minus signs rather small.

Prices tipped lower at the start and continued on down through the fourth hour. Thereafter a recovery try was made. It erased a portion of the larger losses but failed to make a significant dent in the list of losers.

Utilities held their own, and a few plus signs appeared in aircrafts, electronics, and oils.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 60 cents at $108.90, leaving the average down 20 cents on the week. The industrial component today lost 70 cents, railroads lost $1.10, while utilities held unchanged.

The list of issues traded was ten less than yesterday at 1,056 of which 257 advanced and 510 declined with 15 new highs and 18 new lows for the year touched during the day.

Business amounted to a million shares. That compared with 1,040,000 shares traded yesterday when the market held unchanged on average with plus signs maintaining a slight edge.

General Motors, off a point yesterday, was down ½ at 58½ today with 9,100 shares traded. It was the seventh most active issue.

Corporate bonds were steady. U.S. governments in the over the counter market were unchanged to higher.

Box Firm Burns While Mud Clogs Fire Unit's Hose

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15 (AP)—A lumber and box company in nearby Arabi burned to the ground today while firemen stood helpless for lack of water.

Owner Leon Rosenzweig said a watchman discovered the fire about 5:30 this morning and notified the Arabi-Chalmette fire department.

Firemen sought to draw water from a nearby canal, Rosenzweig said, but succeeded in sucking only mud into the pumpers. Abandoning the canal, the firemen ran a line to the nearest hydrant about four blocks away.

Fire Chief Harry Boos said little water pressure was obtained but the fire had gained such headway that the firemen were unable to extinguish the flames.

Rosenzweig estimated the loss at $35,000—$30,000 for the building and equipment and $25,000 for boxes and Army foodstuffs destined for the New Orleans Port of Embarkation.

The factory manufactured boxes for overseas shipments of foodstuffs and acted as packers and forwarders of the commodities.

Congress Told American Oil Reserves Small

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 (AP)—Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, told Congress today the United States does not have even half enough ready reserves oil producing capacity for national security.

To preserve incentives for the search for new oil sources, Thompson said, it is essential to continue the 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance now granted producers.

"Revenue, however badly needed, cannot be considered when our national security is at stake," he said. "Come war, there would be no time to hunt for places to drill oil wells."

James P. Jones of Bradford, Pa., an independent oil spokesman, said the continuance of the tax depletion allowance was essential to thousands of small operators faced with high cost and financially hazardous production operations.

Jones and Thompson were among nearly a score of witnesses representing large segments of the oil and mineral industries before the House Ways and Means Committee in support of continued or enlarged tax incentives.

The committee, concluding more than two months of hearings on the tax laws, was considering depletion allowances now granted oil and mineral producers for income tax purposes.

Thompson, representing the big Texas oil producing industry, told the committee that men venture into risky drilling largely because of the 27½ per cent depletion allowance. He went on to say:

"Remove that incentive, and our domestic supply of oil will shrivel, and we will become, in my opinion, dependent upon foreign oil within a very short time. Come war, foreign oil, of course, could be denied us."

Jones, representing the national stripper well association said 66 per cent of all oil wells in the country are stripper wells—those which produce oil through secondary recovery methods after natural pressure is exhausted.

Carville Man Dies In Flaming Wreckage

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15—(AP)—A 45-year old Carville man was burned to death in his truck after a wreck on the Airline Highway Friday night.

State police said the victim, Shedric Torter, Negro roofer, was trapped in the flaming truck after it ran into the rear of a car driven by Victor J. Walker, 25, of Sorrento. The accident happened five miles above LaPlace.

Police said Walker and a passenger in his car, Melvin LeBlanc, tried to aid Torter but were driven back by the heat.

...oard Adopts ...rm Policy Plan

..., Aug. 14 (AP) — ... Board of Public ... adopted a new farm ... prevent people from ... the city in order to ...ligible for aid to depend... ...dren and general assistance ...

...der the new policy, farm ...orkers in the two assistance categories will have their claims suspended during the farming seasons and be permitted to earn as much as they want without suffering a reduction in grant when the claims are restored at the end of the season.

Alvis D. Roberts, chairman of a special committee studying the problem, explained that under the policy in use for the past three years, recipients of aid to dependent children and general assistance grants were eliminated from the rolls when they accepted seasonal work.

As a result, he said, many ...ved to the city and refused seasonal work in order to stay on the rolls.

Commissioner Edward P. Dameron told the board that the new policy would not mean an added expense to the department since new claims would be offset by savings realized during the suspension periods.

The new policy further encourages seasonal employment by shutting out claims of those who reject farm work where available, or who live in town and refuse farm work where transportation is available.

Roberts declared, "This should answer criticisms that the welfare department is encouraging people not to work."

The board adopted a similar resolution applying to all persons receiving aid to dependent children and general assistance grants, making them ineligible for welfare checks if they refuse work.

In a preliminary annual financial report, the board heard that Louisiana's welfare program spent $102,140,763 in public assistance benefits during the fiscal year which ended June 30, compared with $92,626,000 in the 1951-52 fiscal year.

Gilbert Root, department finance officer, said the program actually cost the state $560,000 less last year than in the previous fiscal year because of an increase made in federal matching funds in October.

Including administrative costs, the annual report showed that the total program cost $110,337,165 in fiscal 1952-53, of which the federal government contributed $56,312,846 and the state $44,024,319.

The board decided to stick with its present policy of rejecting welfare claims by out-of-state patients at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital at Carville, taking the view that the responsibility for such cases rests with the state from which the patient came or with the federal government.

An application from a Washington, D.C., firm seeking a contract to make an educational movie of Louisiana's welfare program was turned down, after board members observed: "We don't have any trouble advertising our product."

The board asked the Louisiana Youth Commission to make a study of the need for juvenile detention homes in the state by decided to take no action "until some state plan is fixed by the Legislature."

Several months ago a citizens committee from Monroe asked that a detention home be built there to house children awaiting court action instead of committing them to jail houses.

Kennon Names New Curators

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 14 (AP) — Gov. Robert Kennon appointed a completely new board of curators for the Louisiana State Museum today.

The action followed a recent opinion by the attorney general's office that the old board was named in violation of state law because members were not selected from certain art, historical and agricultural groups.

At the same time, Kennon appointed John W. Bowen of New Orleans to a vacancy on the board of administrators of New Orleans Charity Hospital, and reappointed Dr. N. J. Tessitore of New Orleans.

The nine new members of the board of curators, all from New Orleans, and the groups they represent are:

Hugh M. Wilkinson Sr., Louisiana Historical Society.

Ray Samuel, Louisiana Historical Society.

Henry B. Curtis, Louisiana Historical Association.

J. Kearney Livaudais, New Orleans Art Association.

Robert Craig II, cotton industry.

Convict Escapees Captured In Miss.

PARCHMAN, Miss., Aug. 14 (AP)—Two Mississippi penitentiary escapees were captured today after the mother of one forced her son to surrender, then told officers where the second convict was hiding.

Penitentiary officials said Bennett, a Negro, was surrendered by his mother after she convinced him escape was wrong.

The woman then informed officers that another escapee, Johnny Smith of Pike County, identified as a Negro also by the penitentiary, was hiding in a clump of trees.

The two men escaped from the penal farm last week while working in a cotton field.

Jet Flights To Africa Planned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14 —UP— The Air Force announced Friday it will send flights of jet fighters from Georgia to North Africa and England later this month in the longest non-stop, over-water jumps ever made by fighter planes.

The Strategic Air Command said the flights will be a further test of its ability to move fighters quickly to trouble spots around the world. In World War II the movements of a fighter wing by surface transportation took as long as six weeks.

Exact departure dates of the two flights will be announced later, but routes will be kept secret, the Air Force said.

Twenty-eight jet fighters will take part in the two flights.

Eight F-84 Thunderjets of the Strategic Air Command will fly 4,470 miles non-stop from Turner Air Force Base, Albany, Ga., over the central Atlantic to Nouasseur, French Morocco, as part of a mobility exercise.

Twenty other thunderjets from the same base will make a 4,485-mile non-stop flight across the North Atlantic to Lakenheath, England.

The Air Force said the jets, with a top speed of about 600 miles an hour, are expected to average about 450 miles an hour on the flight.

The flight to North Africa will be the first crossing of the central Atlantic by fighters, and the hop to England will be the first non-stop mass flight of fighters across the North Atlantic. Previous fighter flights to England have landed at points along the route.

Allies Split On Korean Issues

(By The Associated Press)

The American hope of confining the Korean political conference to issues directly connected with Korea will go a-glimmering if Britain, France and others succeed in their demand that Russia and India be given seats.

Several days of lapel-pulling and roundtable conferences have failed to compromise the differences of the allies on the subject. The split between Britain and the United States was reported at the United Nations to be particularly sharp.

For one thing, underneath the vigorous British arguments lies their desire to get around the table with Russia anywhere, any time, at any level even if it cannot be the top level as they propose, to see if there are any openings for East-West agreements as the result of Stalin's death.

They have a cogent argument about India, which maintains better contacts with Moscow than any non-Communist nation. It will be hard for the United States to maintain in a floor fight in the General Assembly that India, which produced the plan which ultimately became a major basis of the Korean truce, would not be helpful at the conference.

The truce terms provide for representation at the conference of "countries concerned," which the United States hopes the Assembly will interpret as meaning those who actually participated in the fighting.

Under a broader interpretation, however, it is very easy to contend that Russia, who started the Korean War and provided the arms with which it was fought, is "concerned." Certainly America has been concerned over Moscow's part in it, and any attempt to disavow Russian interest in it could very easily be twisted by the Communists into an absolution.

U. S. authorities are especially interested in avoiding expected Communist efforts to obtain payment — Formosa, for instance — for any concessions they might make to the American desire for a unified Korea.

The Communists certainly are going to conduct themselves at the conference against the background not only of the whole Asian problem, but the whole East-West dispute. Nothing anyone can do about trying to restrict the agenda will prevent them from doing so. They do it at every table at which they sit in the United Nations, regardless of the immediate topic under discussion.

U. S. diplomats have taken their stand against broadening the field of the conference after careful consideration. They were finally governed by the realization that the Reds would want to bargain about matters which involved uncompromising principle. If the Chinese Reds show an appreciable amount of good faith in the Korean matter, then the nations might move on to other matters with greater hope. That is the American view.

It also is quite possible that the State Department has been influenced by another very practical situation. Its experts on Asiatic affairs were so busy during arrangements for the truce that they had no time to study post-truce projects. They expect to use every last one of the 90 days allowed between the truce-signing and the conference just to get themselves set to negotiate about Korea. To add studies of all other highly complicated Asiatic problems would make their task almost impossible in the time allotted.

Yet if either India or Russia is at the table, the broad background of the issues will have been made an implicit part of the negotiations.

GOP Gets Set To Hold Control Of The Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—UP—Republicans are getting set Friday for one of their hardest campaigns in history to hold control of the Senate after the 1954 elections.

Simple arithmetic shows the size of the job they face to maintain party control through the second half of President Eisenhower's term.

Assuming a Republican is appointed to replace the late Sen. Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire and that Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio names a member of his party to succeed the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, the lineup next January will be:

Republicans	47
Democrats	48
Independent	1

The Republicans can count on the votes of Independent Wayne Morse of Oregon and Vice President Richard M. Nixon to guarantee control over committee chairmanships and Senate machinery in the 1954 session.

But, the GOP will have to hold everything it has at stake next year to stay in the driver's seat thereafter. It will be bucking the tradition the party out of power gains in an off-year election.

There will be 35 Senate places up next year, 13 defended by Republicans and 22 by Democrats on the basis of the expected January lineup.

Statistically, the Democrats have more to lose. But, a big bloc of their seats is in traditionally "safe" territory. This bloc includes the solid South state of Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Democrats also would add to the "safe" column the seats of Sens. Edwin C. Johnson in Colorado, Clinton P. Anderson in New Mexico, Theodore Francis Green in Rhode Island, Robert S. Kerr in Oklahoma, and Matthew M. Neely in West Virginia.

The traditionally Republican strongholds are fewer — Kansas, Maine, Nebraska, South Dakota, Oregon, and New Hampshire where two senators are to be elected. The GOP also would add the seats of Sens. Henry C. Dworshak of Idaho and Robert C. Hendrickson in New Jersey.

If these appraisals are correct, the real battle for the Senate narrows down to 11 states which might go either way—California, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Ohio, and Wyoming.

Martin ...oks 'Em Over

On Thanksgiving Day of 1942 the Salvation Army made a contribution to Monroe that can't be measured in dollars and cents but is still paying off in a big way for our youth. We're referring, of course, to the young Salvation Army captain, Jack Hesketh, who moved here that Thanksgiving Day and quickly showed his interest was chiefly with the boys and girls when he organized the Red Shield Club and year-round athletic programs.

JACK HESKETH

The other day "Captain Jack" found out just how much the folks hereabout felt about the work he is doing. He was surprised with the present of a new automobile in recognition of his untiring work. No longer is Jack Hesketh connected with the Salvation Army, but he's continuing the kind of work he started here for Red Shield but on a broader scale as recreation director of Monroe.

Hesketh is one of those fellows who isn't afraid of work, puts in long hours, and expects nothing in return except to serve better, the programs that will benefit our youth.

A couple of young men, Sam Rubin, Jr., and Gerald "Jerry" Sugar, who only a few short years ago were reaping benefits of Hesketh's year-round recreation calendar, spearheaded the drive that had friends contributing toward that new car. Jack was a mighty surprised man when he was called onto Lions Field that rainy evening about a week ago to accept the reward.

Monroe may have forgotten how close we came to losing Hesketh. We can thank the former mayor, Harvey H. Benoit, that "Captain Jack" is here today.

After four years with the Salvation Army here, Hesketh apparently was leaving Monroe for good when he accepted an assistant director's post with the Off-The-Street Club for boys in Chicago on January 3, 1946. But it was at the insistence of Mayor Benoit, whom Hesketh lists among "My personal friends," that he returned to Monroe to head the city's recreation department on April 1, 1946.

The growth of the recreation program speaks for itself. There were only ten softball teams during that first summer's program for Hesketh, six junior clubs and four in the elder City League. The basketball program that winter included only six teams. Last winter there were 30 basketball teams in half a dozen leagues, and the summer softball program, just closing, produced 28 white teams and 12 colored teams. In addition, Hesketh's services went into plenty of hard work with first summer's program for Hesketh, six junior clubs and worked on the board of directors with the Little Bigger League. And, on top of all this, he found time to conduct eleven summer playgrounds, seven for whites and four for colored, where only four playgrounds were being operated when he took over the job a little over seven years ago.

Eight hundred and forty boys took part in the summer league activities, and around 1,800 boys and girls benefited from the playground programs.

Indeed, it was a fortunate day for Monroe that Hesketh, who was born August 12, 1912, in Central Falls, R. I., left his job as head inspector of a cotton and rayon mill in Pawtucket, R. I., to join the Salvation Army. A graduate of Pawtucket Public School and Rhode Island School of Design, Jack participated in all sports and admits he likes soccer best. He was married July 13, 1935. The family includes two daughters.

Although Jack also has charge of two recreation centers for day and night activities, one for white and one for colored, he declares, "I hope someday to see a new recreation center that will be a credit to the children of Monroe."

All Tricks Fail For Yanks; A's Win, 9-8

Reynolds Labeled With First Relief Loss In Two Years

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15. (AP)—The mighty New York Yankees rallied their home run sluggers, ace Pitcher Allie Reynolds and even worked a squeeze bunt for a run, but it wasn't enough to beat the Philadelphia Athletics today as the A's staggered to a 9-8 victory on the strength of a walk to Cass Michaels and Loran Babe's double in the ninth inning.

A crowd of 7,502, saw Reynolds appear as a relief pitcher in the eighth and wind up with his sixth loss against 10 victories. Maurie Martin, the third pitcher for the A's, got credit for the win by holding the Yank's scoreless in the ninth.

Most of the action was packed into the eighth.

The Yankees counted four runs on a double by Gene Woodling, Irv Noren's single, a 2-run homer by Billy Martin, Phil Rizzuto's single and a triple by Joe Collins.

But the A's came back on Elmer Valo's double, Eddie Robinson 2-run homer, singles by Cass Michaels and Loren Babe, a sacrifice by Eddie McGhee and pinch double by Carmen Mauro for four runs to tie the score. The game was Reynolds' first defeat as a relief pitcher since Aug. 22, 1951. In this span he has answered 30 emergency calls.

LSU Looks To Grid Year With Cautious Optimism

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 15. (Special) — Louisiana State's football squad congregates here in just two weeks to begin preparations for one of its toughest in a long line of tough schedules.

Coach Gaynell Tinsley and his staff will greet some 60-odd candidates from whom must come the staunch men required to face on successive Saturdays Texas, Alabama, Boston College, Kentucky, Georgia, Florida, Ole Miss, Tennessee, Mississippi State, Arkansas, and Tulane.

Among other problems, the conversion to the one-platoon will rear its head and must be adequately dealt with if the Bengals are to salvage some glory from what could be a disastrous campaign.

A feeling of cautious optimism prevails in the Tiger coaching ranks. The coaches feel that at least the Bengals this year will only have to deal with one team at a time and through this factor may be able to make a better showing than last year.

Leading the candidates will be approximately 25 lettermen who will form the nucleus of the 1953 Tiger squad. Around these veteran campaigners Tinsley must rally rookies and transfer students in an attempt to find the depth that the Tigers must have to face their schedule.

Whether they will be good enough to meet the weekly installments on Mike's hide is a matter of conjecture, but if hard work can accomplish miracles, "Cindarella," who took a powder after the '49 campaign, may appear again on the turf of Tiger Stadium.

The only visible signs of the approaching season are the daily coaching confabs between Tinsley and his assistants and the army of workmen going at top speed to increase the Tiger Stadium capacity to 68,000 through the enclosure of the south end. Another group is rapidly putting together Tiger Stadium's mammoth new press box and elevator.

It should be an interesting season, win or lose, and Coach Tinsley is anxiously awaiting the beginning of practice so he will know where his Tigers stand.

Richardson Ends Aussies' Bid For Title At Newport

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 15 (AP)—Uncle Sam's tennis aces completed one of their best days against Australia today by sweeping Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, the whiz kids from down under, out of the Newport Invitation Tournament.

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, slated to carry the burden for the U. S. in the Davis Cup matches, will battle it out for the title tomorrow. But it was 19-year-old Ham Richardren of Baton Rouge, La., expected to be the third member of the American cup squad, who turned in the mightiest feat of the day.

Before he lost to Seixas in the afternoon semi-finals, the six-foot, NCAA champion came from behind a 2-1 set deficit to upset the power-hitting, 18-year - old Hoad, 6-2, 3-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3 in a rain-interrupted quarterfinal.

Seixas, last year's cup captain, downed Richardson 6-2, 7-5, 6-4 after Trabert had routed Rosewall, 6-3, 6-3, 8-6. It was the first time Vic had gained the final round in 12 tries.

Richardson and Hoad played their first three sets yesterday. The strong Aussie youngster led two sets to one when downpour forced postponement of the finish until today.

This morning Ham quickly asserted his mastery. He broke Hoad's forceful service on his first try and then smashed the Australian's serve three more times in a row. In the final game, Hoad reached game point seven times on Ham's service. It looked like Richardson might "choke" in realizing he was so close to winning. But the Louisiana lad shook off the jitters and pounded through for his victory.

Seixas, however, was too powerful and sharp for Richardson in the semi-final. Ham was tired after his great comeback against Hoad and didn't offer too much resistance to Vic's kicking serves and expert volleys.

White Sox Cooled By Aber's Relief Hurling; Lose, 5-4

DETROIT, Aug. 15. (AP)—Southpaw Al Aber of the Detroit Tigers gave up only one hit in 4 and 2-3 innings of sparkling relief pitching today to save a 5-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox and prevent them from gaining ground on the New York Yankees.

Aber replaced starter Ted Gray in the fifth and the only hit off him was a meaningless single by Bob Wilson in the eighth inning.

By losing, the White Sox remained 6 and ½ games behind the Yanks, who bowed in Philadelphia.

Stagg 91 Today; Ailing Wife May Spike Coaching

STOCKTON, Calif., Aug. 15. (AP)—In a modest little cottage, Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg will observe his 91st birthday tomorrow — with memories of football stretching back several decades.

"It will be just a quiet day at home tomorrow with my wife, Stella," Stagg remarked as the mailman brought him 31 letters.

Stagg said he received more than 200 congratulatory messages when he was 90, and probably would receive more this year.

"We probably will spend most of the day going over the many messages," he said.

Mrs. Stagg is recuperating from a nervous disorder. Her husband said his future football coaching plans depend upon her complete recovery.

BOSTON, Aug. 15. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox succeeded only in snapping Pitcher Bob Porterfield's string of 2 scoreless innings today while losing a double header to the Washington Senators by 5-2 and 4-2 margins. Wildcats Strike Bayou Bengals Off Cage Slate

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 15. (AP)—The University of Kentucky basketball team, number one quintet in the nation two years ago but forced into idleness last season by NCAA disciplinary action, will return to the hardwood this fall with a 24-game schedule.

The schedule was announced today by Athletic Director A. Shively following NCAA approval of the eligibility of three senior members of Coach Adolph Rupp's team and in anticipation that the national athletic body will reinstate the school to recognized competition.

Final settlement of a boycott threat by some Southeastern Conference schools which preferred not to play the Wildcats in Lexington also made the announcement possible.

The University of Georgia was scheduled for a home game to replace Louisiana State, the lone SEC holdout. Other members of the original boycott bloc, Tulane, Mississippi and Mississippi State, rescinded earlier decisions and agreed to play here. This gives Kentucky a total of 24 SEC games

In addition to conference games, Kentucky is slated for intersectional tilts with Temple, Wake Forest, St. Louis University, Minnesota, and DePaul of Chicago.

Temple opens the season here on December 5.

Highlight of the schedule will be the first annual University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament to be held in school's 13,000 seat Memorial Coliseum on Dec. 21-22. Participants, in addition to Kentucky, will be Duke, LaSalle, and UCLA.

During the year of idleness, Kentucky continued intensive practice several times weekly and played an intramural series of four squad games which were opened to the public without charge. The contests attracted nearly 35,000 fans.

This season's veteran team will be headed by All-America Center Cliff Hagan and senior stars Frank Ramsey at guard and Lou Tsioropoulos at forward.

Columbia Has 26 Boys Out For 1st Football Sessions

COLUMBIA, La., Aug. 15 (Special)—The Columbia High School football squad has just completed its first week of training for the approaching season as the Crimson Tide moves into its "Reeves-Kosmac Era" with a new principal and coach. Twenty-six boys compose the squad.

Ira Reeves, formerly coach and principal at Eros High School, is the new Columbia principal. Andy Kosmac, after five years at coach at the now discontinued Clarks High School, has moved in to coach Crimson Tide athletes.

"We pledge to stress good sportsmanship in rebuilding the athletic program at Columbia High School," Coach Kosmac said.

The squad has been weakened by graduations, but Columbia still hopes to build a good team around such returning lettermen as L. Kenny and E. Wyant in the backfield, and B. Long, S. McClanahan, B. Bauman, and G. Mann in the line.

New additions with promise of filling some of the gaps are Don Thorton, J. Holliday, D. Brown, and W. Barron in the backfield, and A. Crockett, J. Johnson, C. Ray, and J. Manly in the forward wall.

Among other boys who participated in workouts this week were R. Braddock, M. Blakely, J. Crockett, D. McGuffie, W. Richmond, G. Sellers, Doyle Thornton, B. Tyron, and A. Tarver. Squad manager is N. Reynolds.

Monroe Legion Juniors Outslug Texas Champs, 14-4

Causey, Hardy Bat Leaders; Take On Little Rock Next

PONCHATOULA, La., August 15. (Special)—The Monroe American Legion Juniors, using the number two formula in their one-two punch — superb pitching-or base-hit blasting, pounded the Houston Juniors, Texas champs, for 16 hits and 14 runs here tonight, to win their first round game, 14-8, in the national sixth region Legion playoffs.

Sunday night, at 8 o'clock, the Louisiana champions take on the Little Rock Doughboys, 10-2 winners over Hattiesburg, Miss. in the afternoon tussle today. The two losers, Hattiesburg and Houston, battle in a 3 p.m. game Sunday, and the eventual loss will knock one of them out of the double-elimination tourney.

Wayne Causey was the chief slugger of the Monroe victors tonight, hitting safely four times in four official trips, including a triple in the second, and driving in two markers. Cleanup batter Billy Hardy had two safeties, both of them the extra-base variety, to drive in five of the Monroe runs. His blow in the second, with Causey on third, cleared the left field fence for a two-run homer. Chubby Johnston had three hits, including a double; and Ike McMullen, Fred Frickie, and Art Swanson all had two each. Jeff Spence had one bingle, and though Larry Reeves and Tommy Boyle got no hits, each managed to get on and score.

Third Baseman Fred Magee was the big gun for Houston, collecting three hits, including a double; and Catcher Bobby White homered over the left field fence in the fifth.

Swanson, who started the game and pitched seven frames for Monroe, was the winner, while "Loopy" Fraga, the Houston starter, who lasted only one inning and took over second base chores with none out in the second, was the loser.

The Houston Juniors jumped off to a two-run lead in the top of the first on two singles, an error and a free pass. Ken Staples led off with a single, and took second on a Larry Reeves throwing error. Pitcher Fraga walked, and both runners advanced on a passed ball. Tom Newman flied out to left, but Staples scored the initial run after the catch. Third-sacker Fred McGee singled in Fraga with run number two, and the next two batters were easy out to end the inning.

The Monroe nine came back in the bottom of the same inning to knot the count at 2-2, with Freddie Frickie the run-driving-in star for the locals. With one away, Chubby Johnston singled cleanly to left. Wayne Causey followed suit, and Billy Hardy forced Causey at second. Johnston taking third. With two outs, Frickie laced one into center, easily scoring Johnston, and when Houston center fielder Jack Jordan fumbled the ball, Hardy steamed around third and chalked up the tying run.

The NCFD-sponsored Monroe chasing Fraga and his successor Armando Tello, with little Houston fireman Jim Exley coming in to put out the fire, after Monroe had scored six runs on four hits to take an 8-2 lead. Swanson opened with a single, and was sent to third when the Houston first-sacker tossed his glove at the ball going over his head. Tommy Boyles got on on an error at third, Swanson scoring, and the batter taking second. Larry Reeves was safe on a sacrifice, Boyles taking third safely. Ike McMullen singled in Boyles, and that was all for Fraga, who went to second-base. Tello, the new Houston hurler, got Johnston out, but Wayne Causey tripled into center, driving in Reeves and McMullen. Hardy smashed the longest blow of the game over the left center field fence for a home run, scoring himself and Causey with runs number five and six. Exley came in to retire the side without further damage.

Houston came back with two more in the third, on a double by Fred Magee, a walk to Bobby White, and singles by Cliff Tuttle and Jordan.

Three more Monroe markers sped across the platter in the bottom of the fourth, two-thirds of them driven in by the slugging Hardy. Johnston led off with a double to left, Causey came through with third straight hit, and, with two on, Hardy lashed a double against the fence in left, to score both runners. Hardy went to third on a ground-out, and scored on Jeff Spence's single.

Houston got the three back in the fifth, on a homer over the left field barrier, a walk to Tuttle, and a run-scoring triple by Frank Brauner. He scored run number three a moment later on a long fly by Jordan, and Swanson's lead was cut to 11-7.

The hit-happy Monroyans tallied three more in the sixth to run the slugfest scoring to 14-7. Johnston again led off with a single, and scored on a Causey single and a Houston throwing error. Hardy flied deep to left, scoring Wayne. Frickie slammed a deep triple to center, and scored on a long Spence fly to center.

Houston pecked away at the lead with a single run in the top of the seventh, on back to back singles by Tuttle and Brauner, and an error by Spence letting the run in on Pitcher Exley's single to right.

Stan, Cyclotron Victors In Turf Double Feature

CHICAGO, Aug. 15 (AP)—English-bred Stan, owned by Hasty House farm and ridden by Johnny Adams, drove ahead in the last one-eighth mile to win the $28,375 Grassland Handicap in Washington Park's double header feature today.

Cyclotron, a 10 to 1 shot, owned by Clifford Moores, Boerne, Tex., earlier took the $29,950 Clang Handicap by two lengths over Duntreath farm's Van Crosby.

Both races proved sorry showings for Calumet farm with three stars going, Mark-Ye-Well and Hill Gail in the Clang and Real Delight in the Grassland.

Stan, a 7 to 1 shot, beat out Stanley C. Mikell's Brush Burn by one-half length, while Marion H. Van Berg's Vantage took third in the mile and a furlong turf race.

Stan's winning time was 1:49 3-5, only three-fifths of a second off the track record. The winner paid $17, $8.40 and $6.60. Brush Burn returned $12.20 and $7.60, and Vantage paid $7.40.

Cyclotron, 5-year-old bay horse and a Calumet castoff, led most of the way down the stretch to take the 7-furlong co-feature in 1:23 1-5, two seconds off the track record.

Third was Golden Maxim stable's Eljay, who finished two lengths behind Van Crosby.

The 6 to 5 favorite, Calumet farm's Mark-Ye-Well, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, finished fifth and Hill Hail, Calumet's 1952 Knetucky Derby winner running as an entry with Mark-Ye-Well, was last in the 12-horse field.

Cyclotron returned to his backers in a crowd of 28,802, $22.20, $12.20 and $5.60. Van Crosby paid $7.80 and $5.80, while Eljay returned $14.20.

Mountain-Climbing Death-Toll Mounts

ROME, Aug. 15 (AP)—Twenty-one more persons fell to their deaths this week and brought the season's toll for Alpine climbing to 164.

This already well ahead of the loss of life in the Alps for all last year.

Alpinists feared that this weekend again would add heavily to the fatalities, as blistering August heat and Italy's Ferragosto holidays drove city-dwellers by tens of thousands to the mountains.

Heaviest death count this week was in Switzerland, where ten died bringing the season total to 43. Eight were killed in Austria, where the total rose to 59.

Haddix Pitches, Bats Cardinals Past Reds, 10-4

CINCINNATI, Aug. 15 (AP)—Harvey Haddix hurled fine ball for seven innings tonight and smashed three hits himself as the St. Louis Cardinals blasted Cincinnati, 10-4. But the 27-year-old lefty had to be taken out in the eighth when the Redlegs rallied.

Haddix gained his 15th win in 20 decisions. He singled in the second to send his former teammate, Jackie Collum, to the showers.

He drove in one round on that single and another with an eighth inning double.

The losers tomorrow will meet Tuesday to eliminate one club, while the Monday winners meet in the other Tuesday contest.

Dancer Collects Travers' Payroll With No Trouble

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. Aug. 15. (AP)—Native Dancer toyed with four rivals for almost a mile today, then sailed off by himself in the stretch to win the $27,900 Travers Stakes by five and a half lengths and become the fourth leading money winning horse in the world.

Backed down to prohibitive 1 to 20 odds by a crowd of 28,260, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's powerful grey express train caught George Auerbach's Dictar about three-sixteenths of a mile from the finish of the mile and one quarter race and galloped home an easy winner.

Mrs. Widener Wichfeld's Guardian II was third, two and a half lengths behind Dictar, with C. V. Whitney's Fly Wheel fourth, another length away. Fifth and last was John W. Nizlek's Mr. Jamieson, another 25 lengths up the track.

There was win and place betting only and the Dancer paid the minimum of $2.10, and $2.10, with Dictar the same short price to place.

The grey 3-year-old champion son of Polynesian-Geisha by Discovery produced another minus pool in the betting as he racked up his 17th victory in 18 starts. There was a $902.30 minus win pool, and a $5,695.84 minus place pool for a total of $6,598.15, previously this year the Vanderbilt star had cost race tracks $77,033.88 in minus pools.

This was the 84th running of the Travers, the country's oldest stakes race, and the Dancer won with all the authority of other great horses who have captured the famous 3-year-old classic.

When Jockey Eric Guerin guided him under the wire without once using his whip, the Dancer collected $18,850 and boosted his all time total to $677,420. This hoisted him from fifth place and into fourth, past Assault, 1946 3-year-old champion, who retired with $675,470 in the bank. Armed is third on the money bags list with $817,475.

Big Ten Orders Crack Down On 'Sucker Shifts'

CHICAGO, Aug. 15. (AP)—A crack down on football's so-called "sucker shift" was ordered by the Big Ten today.

Conference officials, meeting with coaches in their annual preseason rules clinic, were instructed by Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson to give strictest attention to possible abuses of the false start and illegal shift rule.

Notre Dame, Iowa and several other major schools last year were charged with using shifts aimed at luring opponents offside.

The rule against such tactics has been classified in the 1953 football code.

Wilson's admonition came after H. O. (Fritz) Crisler of Michigan, chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic Association grid rules committee, told the officials and coaches his committee was concerned with future trick shaft attempts in crucial game spots to attract offside penalties.

Wilson also directed rigid enforcement of a rule which restricts sideline traffic by coaches, players and attendants. The commissioner reminded the officials the conference now requires all player personnel to remain seated during a game and limits the number of sideline privilege permits.

Army Sergeant Cops German Golf Crown

FRANKFURT, Aug. 15 (AP)—The International German Amateur Golf championship turned out to be a U. S. Army vs. U. S. Air-force battle today—and the Army won it.

Army sergeant E. T. Gonzales of Houston, Tex., defeated air-force sergeant John R. Ford of Asheville, N. C., 2 and 1, in the 36-hole final.

WINGS EDGE ROYALS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 15. (AP)—Cuban righthander Octavio Rubert supplied a brilliant relief chore tonight as the Rochester Red Wings edged the Montreal Royals 5-4 to even the six-game series at two apiece.

Frazier Boosts Margin In Texas Loop Mace Race

DALLAS, Aug. 15 (AP) — There seems no way for anybody to catch up with the Oklahoma City blaster—Jolting Joe Frazier — in the Texas League batting race.

The past week found Frazier maintaining his average of .352 to the last decimal point while Jim Clarkson, the Dallas third baseman, lost a little ground, falling from .333 to .332. In third place is Les Fleming, the big first sacker of the Beaumont Exporters, who slumped from .335 to .326.

Frazier, an outfielder who ranks high in runs, hits and runs batted in, got his neat average with 155 hits in 441 times at the plate.

Bobby Balcena of San Antonio still leads in runs but is only one ahead of Frazier. Balcena has 88. Saturnino Escalera of Tulsa tops in triples with 18, Harry Heslet of Shrevepor tin homers with 36 and Forrest Jacobs, the Fort Worth pepper box, in hits with 158.

That old warhorse of the long ball clout, Russ Burns of Oklahoma City, is nearing the 100 mark in runs batted in. He has 97, five more than Frazier.

In stolen bases, two of the fleet men of Fort Worth are tied for the lead—Gale Wade and Jacobs. Each has 22.

If there's to be a 20-game winner among the pitchers this year, they better hurry. With fewer than 30 games to go, Wayne McLeland of Dallas is the leading winner with a 15-5 record. He will have to hump it to get five more decisions before the season ends Sept. 7. Don Fracchia of Beaumont (14-9), Al Zilian of Oklahoma City (14-10) and Hugh Sooter of Shreveport (14-12) are next in line.

MANCHESTER, Mass., Aug. 15. (AP)—Shirley Fry of Akron, O., shook off one personal tennis nemesis here today and won the right to face another,—Maureen Connolly, San Diego, Calif.,—in championship finals of the Essex Women's Tournament tomorrow.

Miss Fry, runnerup in 1951, scored a stirring cmomeback with victory in the last five games after 5-2 deficit to eliminate Mrs. Margaret Osborne DuPont, Wilmington, Del., three-times Essex and U. S. champion, 6-2, 2-6, 7-5.

It was the first win in seven tries for Miss Fry over Mrs. DuPont, 34-year-old mother, and Miss Fry was forced to fight off four match points against her in the final set before triumph.

Immediately after losing the singles match, Miss Brough, former world champion, defaulted in the doubles semi-final because of illness. She was to be paired with Mrs. DuPont against the fourth-seeded team of Mrs. Thelma Long, Australia, and Anita Kanter, San Francisco. Miss Fry has lost to Miss Connolly in their last five meetings, including the 1951 U.S. finals and semi-finals at Wimbledon in both 1952 and 1953.

In the one doubles semi-final played, the two-year world champions, Miss Fry and Doris Hart, Coral Gables, Fla., defeated Miss Connolly and Julie Ann Sampson, San Marino, Calif., 6-4, 2-6, 9-7. In the recent Wimbledon finals, the Misses Fry and Hart needed only 28 minutes to defeat the Connolly-Sampson team, 6-0, 6-0.

Pelicans Handed Grid Scrimmage; Field Improved

The Louisiana Training Institute Pelicans are beginning to round into shape, but are sadly lacking in experience as most of the boys are new to the game. In an effort to overcome this handicap as much as possible the L. T. I. coaches had their second game conditions scrimmage here on Pelican Field yesterday.

As last week, the squad was divided into "White" and "Gold" teams and again the Whites came out victorious, this time by a score of 23-0. The game was rather evenly played on the ground, the principal difference being in the passing arm of left Halfback Arbon Felker. Felker passed three times for touchdowns, twice to Raymond Bender, and once to Glen Thibodeaux. Floyd Eisenhardt twice kicked for extra points, and Fullback Allen Landry bucked one over. In the last quarter left End Fred Carter blocked a Gold punt which rolled through the end zone for a safety for the White team to complete the scoring.

Good line play was shown by Jones, Ashworth, Paulk, and Allen for the Whites, and by S. Bertrand, Mack, Deroche, and Carlisle for the Golds. G. Bertrand looked good in running and passing for the Gold team and little Calvin King was also outstanding in the Gold backfield. However a great deal remains to be done by the L. T. I. squad before they will be ready for their invasion of Mississippi on September 3.

Pelican Field is taking on a "King Football" look as the locals prepare for their most colorful schedule, which will include teams from five states. Yesterday bleachers loaned to the school by the Monroe Recreation Department were erected on the field. The football and softball fields were lighted by floodlights last spring and the Pels will be meeting teams from Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas at night this season.

Dodgers Smash Pirates With 15-Hits; Win, 14-6

BROOKLYN, Aug. 15 (AP)—Brooklyn slugged its old Pittsburgh sparmates with four home runs in a 15-hit attack today to smother the Pirates, 14 - 6, for the seventh straight Dodger victory.

Bob Morgan, Roy Campanella, Carl Furillo and Rube Walker homered off the parade of Pirate pitchers as Brooklyn won its 13th in 14 starts over the feeble last place club.

The Brooks started out at a three-run-an-inning clip and held it through the first four frames before Jim Waugh, second Pirate pitcher, finally held them scoreless. It was no contest long before that.

Martin Near CSL Home Run, Total Bases Marks

By J. P. FRIEND

BLYTHEVILLE, Aug. 15 (Special)—With 20 games left to play, Hot Springs Hal Martin stands at the threshold of establishing two all-time Cotton States League batting records.

Official records of games through Tuesday night as reported by the Friend News Service credit the Bather buster with 38 home runs, two shy of the 23-year-old mark set by Ralph Weingarner of El Dorado, and 321 total bases, needing 10 to better the 330 massed by Roy Bueschon with Greenville in 1941.

Martin enjoyed a prosperous week until Tuesday night when he bumped into some extra tight pitching by Roy Jayne, Natchez, getting the horse collar in four. But the remainder of the nine games, counting the completed game started back on July 6, Hal collected at least one hit. Despite the two-point drop to .358, he still held on to his batting leadership and specialized departments. He has scored the most runs, 113; collected the most hits, 154, in addition to his four masters and total base. His card for the week showed 38-13, with two triples that put him in a tie with Monroes improving Nelson Daehn (.293). He had 20 total bases with his hits.

El Dorados surging Pat OKeefe has roared back to offer a definite threat to the swat crown. The Irish first baseman added five points last period with 30-12 for .354. Steve Korfonta, Hot Springs outfielder, continued along his terriffic .350 pattern by racking up a 10-game streak for third place and well within hailing distance of the top. Meridians Hugh Glaze tumbled nine points to .337, but finished fifth, closely pressed by Greenville first sacker, Roger Rada, who lost a pair of points to .335. Ken Robinett, Pine Bluff initial corner guardian, also slumped slightly to .333 and seventh. Ray Posipanka, another of Greenvilles big guns and a prominent factor in the Buck rise to first division, has a one - point advantage over Jackson skipper-catcher, Duke Doolittle, for the eighth spot, .327 to .326. Meridian outfielder and leadoff, Gene Pompella, kept his rise moving with a four-point gain to .324, and rounds put the upper 10 list of hitters.

The bracket of good hitters doesn't stop there, however. For there are Anse Moore, Jackson-Meridian, with .324; Vern (Moose) Shetler, Hot Springs manager, .323; Frank Lucchesi, Pine .320; Merrill Smith, Pine Bluff, .318; Charley Harrington, Monroe pilot and No. 1 base thief (24), .316; Pel Austin, El Dorado, .313; Louie Schaufele, Jacksons outstanding rookie, .313 Mike Garone, Greenville, .311; Ray Coss, Monroe-El Dorado, .303; Bill Lewis, Meridian, .302, a gain of 10 with 28-12 for the week; Jack Landis, Pine Bluff, .301; and Ty Braziel, Greenville, who regained the coveted circle with a four point rise with 25-9.

Free-for-all races feature the specialized departments. Daehn has 30 doubles to lead in that phase, but Martin, Korfonta, Robinett, Schaufele have posted 29.95. Pompelia has scored 97 runs; Posipanka 90, not too far under Martin. Shetler reached the 100-mark in runs batted in but will have to keep moving forward to stay in (96); Austin (96); Lewis (95), and others high on the list of run-batterins. Martin also is pressing Harrington in base swiping with 22, the same as Pompelia and Lucchesi, front of Martin (98) Schaufele

The list of pitchers with ten or more games has grown to 20, with Meridians great Bobby Harrison at the top of the heap with 18-7. Tom Pollet, Greenville, has registered 16 wins and nine defeats. Hugh Blanton, Monroe, has 15-11; John Paul Jones, Jackson, 14-7; Charles Lindquist, Greenville, 14-8. Clyde Baldwin, El Dorado, the leader in percentage, posted a grand 13-4. Teammate Bob Brown has won 13, dropped nine; Frank Healy, Natchez - Meridian, 13-10. Dozen game winners include: Ken Seifert, Hot Springs, 12-10 and Marv Hatcher, Monroe, 12-13. Six have racked 11: Jimmy Dupuy, Meridian and Hal Renn, Jackson, 11-6; Chuck Slaber (ELD) and Frank Callahan (PB), 11-7; Al Ronay (HS) and Hugh Ratcliff (Nat), 11-11. Charles Gross and Lee Alford, (Mdn) have 10-4 each; Bob Picken (PB) 10-7; Milt Ardrey (ELD), 10-8. Harrison is far ahead in strikeouts with 161.

Burke Paces Fort Wayne

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 15 (AP)—Jackie Burke Jr., Kianesha Lake, N. Y., fashioned an 8-under-par 64 today to jump in front of a closely packed field at the end of 54 holes in the $15,000 Fort Wayne Open Golf Tournament.

His 198 total gave him only a one-stroke advantage over Dave Douglas, Newark, Del., and only eight strokes over two men tied for 20th place. Tourney officials are getting set for a possible playoff after the 18-hole windup tomorrow.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the Memphis dentist who turned in a fine 62 yesterday to grab a share of the second round lead, shot a 69 today for a tie for third at 200.

Art Wall Jr., Pocono Manor, Pa. equaled Middlecoff's 200 total with a 68. Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., who held a share of the lead after the first two rounds, scrambled over the 6,535-yard Elks Country Club layout today and finished with a one-under-par 71 for a 202.

Texas' Athletic Hall Of Fame To Enshrine 'Babe'

DALLAS, Aug. 15 (AP)—Babe Didrickson Zaharias, who certainly lived up to the requirement for a place in the Texas Hall of Sports Fame—"who by his or her feats brought fame and honor to Texas"—is going to make it this winter.

The incomparable Babe, who returned to golf in less than four months after an operation for cancer at hometown, Beaumont, Tex., and won third place in the All-America Tournament in Chicago, today was voted into the Hall of Fame to join Tris Speaker, the baseball great, and Ben Hogan, the mighty golfer.

Mrs. Zaharias, a Texan by birth, beat out another Lone Star state athletic great — slingin' Sammy Baugh of football fame. The Babe had 239 votes and Baugh 207.

Election to the Hall of Fame is by obtaining a majority vote of the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Bill Rives, sports editor of the Dallas News, is chairman of the Hall of Fame committee. He informed the Babe of her selection and received a wire from her at Olympic Fields, Ill. "I am very happy and feel greatly honored and want to thank all Texas sports writers for thinking me capable of such a honor," she said.

Mrs. Zaharias wo her first fame when, as a teen - age girl from Dallas st was the sensation of the Olympic games. But she starred in most every other sport, too, and was the greatest woman golfer of all, both as an amateur and as a professional.

At the same time Mrs. Zaharias receives her award at a dinner here, two deceased athletes who brought fame to Texas also will be honored. They are Bo McMillin, the football great of Centre, and Billy Disch, who piloted the University of Texas to many championships in baseball Disch wasn't a native Texan, however.

Villains Fight Main Grapple-Bout Tuesday

The weekly wrestling program at Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night takes on three oddities, heretofore unknown in the local grunt and groan ring, the number one occurrence being that the people's choice, popular Jack Curtis, is relegated to a preliminary role against Rube Wright instead of the main attraction; two most famous villians of all times, Jack Kelly and Pat Cronin are scheduled against each other in the feature event; and thirdly, there will be no best-of-three falls match between them — they'll wrestle to a finish.

Last week, "Irish Jack" and "Big Boy" were relay match partners against the Curtis brothers, and after they were defeated in three falls, but they wound up matters by battling between themselves, and a good hassle commenced, which will be continued in a regular match Tuesday night. In fact it won't be a regular match, at that, for there will be no time limit or usual two-of-three falls to win. The falls, no matter how many there are, will not count, and there will be only five minutes between. When one contestant is unable to answer the bell, the other wins, and since it is a winner-take-all match, he will win all, and the loser must burn his wrestling trunks in mid-ring and depart from this territory. Promoter Kallio has agreed to provide a receptacle for the ring trunk-burning ceremony.

If the two wrestle according to past form in the local arena, the fans will have a hard time deciding who to cheer for.

Rube Wright, of Birmingham, Ala. returns after an absence of many months to meet Jack Curtis in the 8:15 preliminary, slated for a 45-minute time limit, two falls to win.

Big Boy Cronin of Jackson, Miss. And Jack Kelly was defeated by Curtis Brothers last Tues. Nite in tag team match. Cronin said, I was a captain of the team and I had Geo. Curtis beat with a hammerlock hold, I turned him over to Kelly with instruction to beat with that same hold, but Kelly disobeyed orders and cause us to lose the match.
For that reason, I want to get Kelly in the ring and give him the beating of his life. I want this match winner takes all basis and if I fail to defeat him, I will burn my wrestling equipment in the center of the ring.

Irish Jack Kelly, St. Louis, Mo. Pride of the Yankees, Answered Cronin challenge. As follows-This big Boy Cronin thought I should have kept stomping Geo. Curtis arm to defeat him. Well, Cronin has his way of wrestling and I have mine. The way Cronin acted after the match—Like he is super toughie and he might be, but he just have to show me, before I believe anything he said in the ring after the match. He had too much to say. The Wrestling fans didn't believe word of it and I sure didn't pay no attention about his talk and challenge either. Now I have an idea how Cronin and I can settle this argument. If Mr. Kallio would make match for us - Winner take all is alright with me-No time limit. No disqualification. One referee-Falls don't mean anything, only 5 minutes rest between the falls, it doesn't make any difference how many falls we have, Only last fall counts when one of us is not able to come back and the one who is in the ring-ready and willing to wrestle some more, will be the winner. If I should lose to Cronin, I will come back in the ring and burn my wrestling tights.

Main is bringing together Irish Jack Kelly with Big Boy Cronnin-With understanding that Bill Barney will be the Referee—Match will be under the La. State Commission rules—except special permit being issued by Commissioner Silverstein that match between Kelly and Cronin don't have a time limit.

Semi final event—45 min. time limit two falls to win-Rube Wright and George Curtis.

Bill Barney-Owner and Operator of Barney's Garage 508 Montgomery, W. Monroe will Referee.

Wrestling starts at 8:15 p.m. Doors open at 7 P.M. Tickets on sale at Kallio's Arena. Ph. 3-2261.

Registration At Northeast State September 9-12

Fall semester registration at Northeast State is scheduled September 9-12, it was announced Saturday. Regular class work will begin Monday, September 14.

First semester freshmen will enroll Wednesday, September 9, and all other students, with the exception of those registered in special classes, will register on the two following days.

Students scheduling late afternoon and Saturday classes only are to enroll from 8 a.m to 12 noon, Saturday, September 12.

Procedure of registration calls for an alphabetical arrangement, designed for the convenience of students. This plan, which has been in effect for several terms, has met with hearty approval of those entering college here, officials said.

The calendar for first semester freshmen is scheduled according to the following alphabetical plan: A-D, 9-11 a.m.; E-J, 11-12 noon; K-M, 1-2 p.m.; N-R, 2-3 p.m.; S-W, 3-4 p.m.; X-Z, 4-5 p.m.

Thursday's group is scheduled as follows: A, 8-9 a.m.; B, 9-10 a.m.; C, 10-11 a.m.; D, 11-12 noon; F, G, 1-2 p.m.; H, 2-3 p.m.; I, J, 3-4 p.m.

Friday's program of enrollment will continue according to the following plan: L, Mc, 8-9 a.m.; M, 9-10 a.m.; N, O, P, 10-11 a.m.; Q, R, 11-12 noon; S, T, 1-2 p.m.; U, V, W, 2-3 p.m.; X, Y, Z, 3-4 p.m.

Beginning freshman and students transferring from other colleges are requested to have their transcripts of credits at the time of enrollment. Veterans entering Northeast State for the first time are asked to have their certificates of eligibility. These forms will facilitate registration.

The opening of the fall semester will find a significant increase in the number of courses formerly offered and a corresponding broadening of curricula. The enlarged academic offerings are in step with the expansion of the college to a junior institution and the answer to needs expressed by students in this area.

Besides the additional courses scheduled this fall, the campus will show many improvements through painting, renovating and waterproofing buildings in addition to covering driveways, drainage and landscaping.

PANMUNJOM, Sunday, Aug. 16 (AP)—Operation Big Switch passed the halfway mark in time today, with the Allies outdoing the Reds in Korean War prisoner exchange.

The Reds promised to return 412 Allied men today—75 Americans, 75 British and 262 South Koreans. The Allies are returning 2,400 North Koreans.

This brought to better than 50 per cent the number of Red prisoners the Allies promised to return, while the Communists have released a little better than 40 per cent of U. N. troops they held.

As the exchange reached the halfway point Saturday, South Korean civilians vigorously stoned two groups of Red POWs who were hurling heavy boots and canteens, along with insults, at watchers along the route. The civilian South Koreans have been pelted regularly by the Red returnees, but yesterday was the first time they had retaliated.

The U. N. Command announced that 314 Reds were injured slightly and that nine Americans were hurt, two badly cut by flying glass.

The exchange began on July 28 and is scheduled, barring bad weather which delays transportation, to be completed by Sept. 3.

Including those exchanged today, the Allies have returned 39,824 Red prisoners, among them the 5,952 Chinese who wished repatriation. A total of between 74,000 and 75,000 Communist prisoners were listed at the start of the exchange.

Only 31 per cent of the Americans held—1,032 out of 3,313—have been repatriated.

The transfer of liberated prisoners back to the United States picked up speed.

An Air Force plane with nine Americans, including Lt. Col. Thomas D. Harrison, the highest ranking prisoner released by the Reds thus far, landed at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., Saturday, U. S. time, and another Air Force plane with four POWs on its passenger list, left Japan Saturday for home. So far there have been three planes dispatched to the United States, most of their passengers being sick and disabled repatriates.

The Navy transport Gen. W. F. Hase sailed today from Inchon with 437 men aboard, including both repatriates and rotating troops. The ship is bound for either San Francisco or Seattle and the trip takes from 10 days to two weeks.

The 50 Americans returned by the Reds Saturday was the smallest number since the exchange began. The stories they told of torture and inhumane treatment, bitter cold, little food and poor medical treatment while in Communist hands followed the pattern of those who had preceded them. The men were all from POW Camp 1 on the Yalu River, North Korea.

Sgt. Wayne Cunningham of Wampum, Pa., reported that three Americans in his company stayed behind. He termed them "progressives" who did not want to return to the United States.

Cunningham estimated that 5 per cent of the 200 men in his company were "progressives." The estimate, he said, included those who informed on fellow prisoners to better their own lot as well as those who had accepted the Communist line.

Pfc. Robert Schefer of Lebanon, Ky., said he doubted that all the "progressives" were men who turned Communists.

"Quite a few of them were just riding the gravy train," he said.

Col. Bernard Renouf of West Hartford, Conn., and Pfc. George Pennington of Augusta, Ga., reported seven men from their company in Camp 1 were sentenced to from one to three years imprisonment just before the armistice.

"There was a hell of a lot of charges against them, but nothing but suspicion," Renouf said. "I guess they were considered more hostile to the Chinese than the others."

"The same day the armistice was signed," Pennington said, "the Chinese read the sentences over the loud speaker. But, I think we will get them back. I have enough faith in our government and in the U. N. to believe that we will get them back."

Eisenhower Tags A 'Blue Ribbon' Contract Panel

DENVER, Aug. 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower today named Vice President Nixon, John Roosevelt and a Chicago Negro attorney —J. Ernest Wilkins—to a new committee assigned the job of preventing hiring and firing discrimination in plants with federal contracts.

Eisenhower picked Nixon to serve as the chairman of the committee, created by executive order last Thursday, and Wilkins to be vice chairman.

Roosevelt, youngest son of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and an active campaigner for Eisenhower last fall, will serve as a member of the new committee together with:

Walter Reuther, president of the CIO; George Meany, president of the American Federation of Labor; Fred Lazarus Jr. of Cincinnati, president of the American Retail Federation and vice president of the American Jewish Committee; Mrs. Helen Rogers Reid, board chairman of the New York Herald Tribune; John L. McCaffrey of Chicago, president of the International Harvester Co.; and John Minor Wisdom, New Orleans attorney and Republican national committeeman from Louisiana.

Six representatives of government agencies also will serve on the committee. They will be named later.

The unit replaces a similar committee which was set up in December 1951 by President Truman.

Announcement of the nine public members was made at Eisenhower's vacation headquarters at Lowry Air Force Base shortly after he pocket-vetoed three bills and signed 15 others into law.

That action cleared his desk of the last of the more than 200 bills which Congress passed in the closing days of the session which adjourned last week.

The President spent most of the morning in his office and then went to Cherry Hills Country Club for a round of golf. He and Mrs. Eisenhower will attend services tomorrow morning at the Corona Presbyterian Church.

Tuesday evening he will interrupt his vacation to fly overnight to New York, where on Wednesday he will take part in dedication of a 32 million dollar federal housing project and register for the New York City elections to be held this year. The President is a legal resident of New York state.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced today that Eisenhower also will meet at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York Wednesday morning with all the newly-appointed members of his anti-Discrimination Committee except Meany and Reuther, who have other engagements.

In his executive order creating the Anti-Discrimination Committee, Eisenhower noted that other orders already on the books require companies with government contracts not to discriminate, on the basis of race, creed, color or national origin, in hiring and firing.

The existing procedures, the President added, "must be revised and strengthened to eliminate discrimination . . ."

Hagerty said in selecting Nixon to be chairman of the new committee Eisenhower wanted to emphasize, by naming the government's second highest official, that the administration intends to do everything possible to see that a policy of equal employment opportunity "is carried out to the letter," so far as jobs in plants with federal contracts are concerned.

Two of the bills which Eisenhower vetoed dealt with claims filed against the government by private individuals. The other veto killed a measure which would have authorized the payment $4,741.72 to the city and county of Denver for street improvements in front of Lowry Air Force Base, where the President has his vacation office.

In a memorandum disapproving the legislation, Eisenhower said a long established principal of law and policy in the federal system of government is the constitutional immunity of the federal government from state and local taxation, and the reciprocal immunity of state and local governments from federal taxation.

Furniture Plant Fire Extinguished

Engines Number 101 and 102 responded to the alarm at 2:07 p.m. Firemen fought the conflagration for over two hours before it could be extinguished.

The blaze was believed to have been started by a short circuit in the electrical system.

NORTH

THERE'S NO better location than "between the schools," meaning between Neville High and Georgia Tucker Grammar School. 806 Alexander has excellent location plus these exciting features: 3 bedrooms, floor furnace, attic fan, hardwood floors, Venetian blinds and drapes and last but not least it's already financed with a 25-year, 4 per cent GI loan with monthly payments of only $61 per month. $2561 is all it takes. . . no closing costs.

WE'LL ADMIT that this home is not the home for a family that can't appreciate a big beautiful yard! For embellishing this 150'x150' lot are oak trees, pine trees, & shrubs that we can't even pronounce. And nestled among this spacious yard is the most comfortable 2 bedroom home on the northside! With central heat, hardwood floors, large bedrooms and a screened side porch how could it help but be? Drive by 705 Loop Road and see what we mean.

WHAT COULD be more satisfying than to be able to stand in your front door and watch the children safely walk only a block to Lexington school? At 1705 Milton you can do just that, for here's a brand new brick home just completed with 3 bedrooms, two tile baths, central heat, sliding door closets, hardwood floors, & 40 gallon water heater. What's more, the pine - paneled kitchen has an American Kitchen dishwasher and garbage disposal! $3400 turns the key to this one with FHA financing available.

JUST THREE Doors off Park Ave. at 2510 Hawthorne is a home that's had loving attention and it shows in all 6 rooms. From the real fireplace and chimney in the living room to the 2 car garage you'll agree, here's real value. The home consists of 2 bedrooms, glistening hardwood floors, 6 metal awnings and a 20-gallon Permaglas lined hot water tank. $2000 is all the cash you need with the balance FHA financed. Will show anytime.

SOUTH

THERE'S NO better buy than an older home in good condition and this one at 232 Pargoud Drive is no exception. With 3 bedrooms (one is 17x15), front and rear screened porch, real fireplace, a tile sink top and nice shade trees it's an excellent buy. Drive by and then call for appointment.

ONLY $8741 for a 3 bedroom home? Sounds absurd but it's true. Not only three bedrooms but two floor furnaces, attic fan, Venetian blinds, hardwood floors, shower in bath, and copper pipes. This home is only 5 years old and in excellent condition . . . already financed with a 25 yr. GI loan, low monthly payments of only $48 per month. $1750 is all the cash required. Call for appointment.

EAST

THE INVESTMENT possibilities in this home at 3900 Spurgeon Drive are unlimited. Here is a 10 room home that has just been completely re-papered with 5 bedrooms, a large living and dining room & den. The upstairs could be easily turned into a two bedroom apartment and the down stairs could be converted into two 2-bedroom apartments. There is also a new garage apt. in the back yard with a 2 car garage. Call today.

IF YOU have yearned for a nice corner lot (70'x160') and a nice 5 room home, here's your ticket at 406 Cole in the college area. Here's a home with a delightful roomy kitchen with a place for everything plus a separate dining room, attic fan, floor furnace, disappearing stair to the attic, and a detached garage. It's selling for $1000 less than the FHA appraised price with only $1050 down. Don't delay!

WEST

AT 1003 Meadowbrook Drive in West Monroe is 3 bedroom, one year old youngster without a scratch on it. It's a big 6 room home facing Jewel Lake on a spacious 100'x150' lot on which your children can "romp" freely. Plus the 3 bedrooms there's an attic fan, floor furnaces, screened breezeway, sparkling hardwood floors and a carport. Here's value and beauty with FHA financing available.

HOMES ARE like shoes, they are better if they fit! Here is a roomy 3 bedroom home that will fit a large family with children or a couple. It's an older, well-cared-for home at 208 N. 7th in West Monroe with a fenced back yard, a new carport and storage room, attic fan, hardwood floors, modern kitchen, and a nice screened side porch $2700 is all the cash you need with the balance FHA financed. Call for appointment.

Miss Patsy Batten Honored At Shower

Hostesses at this lovely social event were Mrs. Reginald Seiler, Mrs. C. B. Fluitt, Mrs. Ralph Bird and Mrs. O. R. Webb.

A bevy of prettily-gowned guests and hostesses, an enviable collection of varied gifts, and artistic floral arrangements combined with gracious hospitality to form an evening which any bride-elect would cherish in her memories of a pre-wedding day.

Her mother, Mrs. L. W. Batten, was dressed in pink linen and lace and she wore matching carnations. Mrs. J. W. Richards, Sr., mother of Miss Batten's fiance, chose a black sheer, accenting large white organdy collar and cuffs and a corsage of small white chrysanthemums.

The four hostesses wore pretty summery dresses as they greeted the many friends who shared the evening's gaiety. Mrs. Seiler was stunning in a black nylon pique with splashes of yellow in the lilies and jewelry which she wore.

Mrs. Webb's lovely aqua volle frock was trimmed in matching satin and enhanced by a corsage of pink roses. Rose tones were stressed in the dresses of Mrs. Fluitt and Mrs. Bird. The former chose linen and a hibiscus of deeper hue. The latter wore organdie with white jewelry and chrysanthemums at the waist.

During the excitement of opening attractive packages, bearing all the characteristics of a future bride, guests had the privilege of viewing the beautiful crystal, silver, china and numerous other household articles arranged on long tables.

Another feature of the occasion was the beauty which characterized the refreshment table. It was centered with an arrangement of crown white asters, chrysanthemums and flocked caspai on a base of styrofoam. Adding to its attractiveness were dainty Dresden figurines and silver bells that were suspended by white satin ribbons from an archway. On either side white tapers glowed from silver and crystal holders. At one end of the table punch was served by Mrs. Webb from a crystal bowl which reflected a cluster of colorful frozen fruit. Trays of finger length sandwiches and small cakes were passed among the guests.

Bargain Hunters Enjoy Auctions

This is the season for the bargain - hunting homemaker who needs an extra chair, a couple of tables or a desk. And one of the happiest hunting grounds I've found is the auction showroom or art gallery.

Many die-hard auction - goers are too hot to bother now, so prices stay low. Dealers are anxious to clear the decks for more prosperous, cold-weather business and often will sell furniture outright. Lush homes are being stripped of old furnishings in anticipation of fall redecoration. All this adds up to good pickings for the slim budget.

To find bargains takes time, footwork and a casual attitude. Much of the furniture in our home was bought this way, and we prize the custom-made oak end tables we got for $15 apiece as highly as new additions which cost considerably more.

2. Decide the maximum you'll pay and Stick With It. Compare items in stores first, if you can, to get some idea of prices, so that you'll recognize a good buy.
3. Find out in advance how much it will cost to get a truck to cart an item that's too bulky for the car. A friend with a pickup truck is a friend indeed.
4. If an auction is scheduled, attend the exhibition beforehand. This gives you a chance to examine at leisure.
5. Check the condition of the upholstery. Is it very dirty or frayed? Does it show any evidence of moth or mouse damage? Will slipcovers mask wear and tear? Will it have to be reupholstered? Could it be used as is with minimum cleaning?
6. Check wood framework and construction. Do tables or chairs wobble? Is chair framework solid when you sit down heavily? Are springs steady and non-sagging? Are the arms and backs set tight and solid to the frame? Extensive repairs quickly eat up savings. Do drawers slide easily? Open and close each one to make sure they're not warped.
7. If you can't attend the auction, you can leave a closed bid with the dealer. You may get the item at your price. You might get it for less.
8. If no auction is scheduled, and the dealer wants to sell, don't snap at the first price he names. Most dealers I've talked to enjoy dickering.
9. If you do attend an auction, don't let the bidding make you raise your maximum bid when your item is on the block. You're after a bargain, remember?
10. Explore the best galleries, showrooms or warehouses first. You're apt to find a selection of finely constructed, well - designed furniture among the ornate bangles, carved ivories and massive cabinets.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Wimbish of 705 S. Third St. announce the approaching marriage of their daughter Miss Cora Lee Wimbish to Samuel Stephen Phillips son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Phillips of West Monroe. The vows will be said at 8 o'clock in the evening at the First Methodist Church with the Reverend H. L. Johns officiating.

Altrusas Plan Program And Activities For 1953-1954

Although meetings of the Monroe-West Monroe Altrusa Executive women's club will not be resumed until September, plans are now being worked out for the Program and Activities for 1953-54. Under the capable leadership of the new president, Mrs. Abbie Leckie of West Monroe, longtime office manager for a local oil company, officers and committee chairmen are already giving attention to plans for the fall. Mrs. Leckie has held many committee chairmanships and has also been club treasurer, bringing excellent experience in the organization as a background for her new office of club president. Mrs. Louis Gruber, vice president and program coordinator; Miss Ann Mickel, treasurer, Miss Clydie Cox, corresponding secretary; Miss Agatha Burkett, recording secretary; and Miss Lillie Glenn, chairman of publicity.

The overall program for 1953-54 is "Service in Four Dimensions," set up by Altrusa's international organization in four major committees. The following have been named on the program committee for the new year.

Mrs. Louis Gruber, program coordinator and vice president, is owner and manager of a local ready to wear shop in Monroe. She has served in many capacities in Altrusa and was chairman of the 1951 Crusade for Freedom in Monroe for the Altrusa Club. She has appeared on innumerable public panels in behalf of Altrusa and civic affairs. Hers is a leadership of dimensions that will coordinate the Altrusa program in the most effective way.

Miss Bernice McCoy, zone manager of the Investors Diversified Services, Inc., is the new chairman of Altrusa information. As a charter member of Altrusa, she is past president of the local club, in addition to serving as president of Inter-club council and holding many committee chairmanships. She is eminently qualified to supervise activities of Altrusa on its three levels: local, district and international.

Dr. Katherine Foster, past president of the local club, is International Relations chairman. As president of the Altrusa Club 1952-53, she took the lead in organizing, among many projects, the United Cerebral Palsy Association of Northeast Louisiana and was instrumental in setting up a committee to study the problems of palsied children and in the sponsoring of cerebral palsy by Monroe-West Monroe Altrusa Club. She is now serving on the board of the UCPA of northeast Louisiana. Professionally she is associated with her doctor husband, Foster and Foster, in West Monroe. Having served as editor of the "Spotlight," Altrusa's local paper, she is a keen analyst, well informed in this important area of Altrusa interest to inform members on international affairs, create world mindedness and understanding in the community.

Mrs. Blanche Gates, manager of classified advertising for a local paper, is the new public affairs chairman. In close touch with the public everywhere, she brings clear, fresh thinking to the committee on public affairs by exploring community needs to find out how best to interpret general objectives of Altrusa into specific, non - partisan activities.

Mrs. Adrienne Carr, is chairman of vocational information, and a charter member of Altrusa Club. She has been a leading member of the local club since its organization, serving in numerous capacities, including the presidency. One of her chief interests for many years has been the organization and development of a "student nurse fund," a project of the local club since 1940. Being alert to the newest developments in the training and guidance field for youths and older workers, she can direct this dimension of Altrusa service toward still higher accomplishment.

The Altrusa program of "Service in Four Dimensions" is directed toward a better understanding of the needs and problems of today, and methods for their solution which will add fullness to the quality of living for tomorrow. Life is an ever - going - on process. Tomorrow will confront us with the task of facing new problems and finding new solutions. This program of "Service in Four Dimensions" is offered as a guide that Altrusa may more effectively contribute to the solution of the problems of tomorrow in the true spirit of patriotism, efficiency and service. The theme presents a challenge for each Altrusa Club to increase the scope, and importance of their influence in the community.

Girl Scout News

Traditionally, the Girl Scout day campers have asked for a "night" camp at the close of the day camp season. Now that the Scouts have their own camp for overnights, it is easy to plan for such an event.

Accordingly, on the Monday following the close of camp, 19 intermediate campers rolled up sheets, blanket, and toilet articles into neat bundles, climbed into waiting cars and set out for what we heard was one of the nicest such camps that have been held.

Ice cold watermelon awaited the arrival of the campers and proved a welcome treat. After the usual hustle and bustle of carrying out mattresses and making up beds on the long, screened porch, the girls cut sticks in the field outside the fence. Each girl cut as straight a one as she could find, for she knew she would make better toast for breakfast on a straight stick.

Soon firebuilders, cooks, and packers were busy and a delectable odor was making everybody hungry. In the cooking pot was blushing bunny, which none of the girls had ever eaten and which they found was simple enough for even th youngest cook to prepare at home by herself. The job of cleaning up after a meal, Scout fashion, i just no trouble at all, so before dark all was straight and the group went inside for games and more fun.

While the girls took their showers three at a time, the rest of the group played games in the dining hall under the direction of Anne Higgins and Eva Clare Noland, both of whom are good at that sort of thing. After the girls got their pajamas on they rejoined the group, until soon all were again taking part. Of course, they couldn't go to bed until they had divided into groups and done paper bag dramatics, of which they never seem to tire.

Soon, on the cool porch with the moonlight peeping in, everybody was sound asleep. Yes, they needed that blanket before morning. Annis Klie, Girl Scout executive, who was along, says she'll go again with that particular group because nobody stirred until the alarm next morning. Annis admits she likes her sleep.

Making toast on a stick for breakfast was a new experience for about half the girls, but they agreed that the toast was better than any they had ever had at home. The grass at camp, like the grass in your yard, has grown apace since the rains. While clearing a place for the breakfast fire, a number of energetic Scouts took on the job of cutting the grass in th flag circle with the little lightweight sling blade. Natalie Roy and Emy Brooks proved the most energetic along that line.

After sweeping floors, cleaning the bathroom, loading the cars, and taking down the flag, campers and leaders took a picnic lunch and went to the Linville fire tower for lunch. Nobody was too afraid of height to climb the tower, and it proved to be a suitable climax for what everyone voted a perfect overnight camp.

Furnishing transportation and leadership were Mrs. J. O. Lee, Mrs. L. C. Noland, Mrs. Hugh Hyman, and Mrs. Sam B. Cook.

Washing Terry Cloth Separates

You're seeing terry cloth in every country or beach scene this summer. Perhaps you have a short, top jacket, stole, skirt or handsome robe in this fabric.

Although it takes to soap and water like a towel, your terry cloth garment shouldn't look like a towel when you're wearing it, especially a "rough-dried" one. You'll have to give a little more care to the laundering than you give to the bathroom blotters.

If it's a deep, dark color, wash it by hand once or twice, until you're sure it's color-fast. Later you can throw it into the washing machine, with other dark colors. If it's a pale color or white, you can put it into the machine from the first.

Before hanging, give the garment a good, hard shake. Then close buttons or fasteners, and pull trimmings, bindings, tapes or fringe between the fingers to straighten them. Hang tops on a shaped hanger that's rustproof. Hang skirts or pedal pushers on a skirt hanger.

Corduroy Used In New Fashions

NEW YORK, (NEA) — Corduroy is no longer a classic. It's come out of the woods to enter a campus and away from it. This fall, it's used for young fashions and for sophisticated clothes as well.

The news in corduroy lies in patterns, color and finish. Calico prints, for instance, are authentic copies of the calico dresses of the 1850's. Roses are strewn over a black surface for truly sophisticated "fancy pants." In one group of prints, there's a black - and-white chevron design that has the look of tweed. And there's almond green combined with black for the appearance of woven boucle. This is cut into a suit and piped in leather.

In some of the fine-ribbed patterns, Aztec weaves are copied in colors both subtle and odd. These patterns appear in slacks and in dance dresses. Black corduroy is cut into a late-day dress and corduroy in a khaki tone is seen in long shorts paired with a shirt in a lighter shade.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Mr. and Mrs. Felix Roberts, of Oak Grove, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary Beth, to Harvie D. Oliver, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Oliver of Monroe. The wedding will be solemnized at the First Methodist Church on Sept. 5.

Roamin' In The Rural

Gardening:

The price of fresh vegetables increased the cost of the food during this summer says Mrs. Euna D. Spielman, home demonstration agent. Weather conditions prevented the local growers from having them, therefore, the supply had to be shipped into this area causing cost to increase to consumer.

Everyone can start planting again and reduce the cost soon, as in August many vegetables can be planted - that is, if the soil has been prepared, fertilizer applied and seed bed firmed by one of these past rains. Do not plant small vegetable seed on soil containing unrotted vegetable matter as this material heats the soil and prevents normal root formation and growth.

An irrigation system will pay for itself and is an almost must for fall production. Water cools the soil and makes plant food elements available.

If you transplant young plants such as tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and brussel sprouts to open rows, from a plant bed, water them immediately with a solution made by mixing one pound of 4-12-4 or 5-10-5 in five gallons of water using about one pint of solution per plant. It will give plants much needed food for a quick start. This solution will not harm plants.

Vegetables to plant in August and varieties are: snap beans (bush) - contender; pole snap beans - can freeze green savage and Kentucky wonder; pole lima-sieva, challenger, willow leaf; bush-lime Henderson's, Fordhook 242, peerless, triumph, Jackson wonder; beets - Crosbys Egyptian, Detroit dark red; carrots - Danvers half long, Chantenay, imperator; squash acron early white bush, cocozelle, sugar bowl, and crookneck; cucumber - cubit, and marketer; turnips (root) purple top, white globe, (greens) Shoglin, seven top; mustard, Florida broadleaf, tendergreen, southern giant curled; cabbage, Louisiana all year (fall); broccoli - Italian green sprouting, freezer's green; cauliflower - super snowball, Stella Nova, snowdrift; brussels sprouts - Long Island improved; collards - Louisiana sweet, Georgia; Irish potatoes - Katahdin, triumph, laDoda; shallots- Louisiana pearl and evergreen, white; radishes - white icicle, scarlet globe, scarlet turnip white-tipped; parsley - dill, spinach; lettuce, endive, escarole and Bermuda onion seeds should be in September. Soil should be prepared now and 6-8 pounds of a complete fertilizer worked into the soil.

Save Bulbs Now:

Gladiolus bulbs should be dug now and tops removed. Toss bulbs about in a box until they are throughly dry, then clean and treat them with 5 per cent DDT dust to destroy thrips which might be carried over until next year. Pack in vermiculite or dry builders' sand and store where they will be dry and not freeze.

Flowering Plants:

August is also the time for starting perennials for next spring's bloomers. These seed are expensive and should be sown in flats. Shallow boxes about six inches deep and not too large to lift easily are best for starting your plants. Use fine sifted garden loam which has been baked or scaled with boiling water. This treatment destroys fungus diseases and insects. U. S. D. A. Bulletin No. 1171 "Growing Annual Flowering Plants" gives detail information on this subject. A list giving botanical and common names of a large number of annuals to plant now is available at the extension office.

Farm and Home Week:

Isn't it wonderful the education and training opportunities offered men and women of today. It can truly be said we stop learning only at the end of life's journey.. Women attended farm and home week at L. S. U. this past week and were taught the best and latest ways of doing many daily homemaking jobs, selecting any and everything used by the family members. They were taught how to guard health by recognising danger signals.

They enjoyed the recreational programs. Much inspriation and determination to do a better job as a homemaker was the result of some of the lectures attended.

The social features - receptions given by Pres. and Mrs. Troy Middleton and one given by Gov. and Mrs. Robert Kennon were highlights of the week at L. S. U. with the group.

Tray Making:

Materials for aluminum tray making are available in local stores - call 3-2251 for further information.

Color Schemes:

The women who borrowed the color books on painted walls please return them to the agent's office at once as we are in great need of them.

See you next Sunday.

Gail Gay Of Oak Grove Feted At Nuptial Parties

Miss Gail Katherine Gay a popular bride-elect of Oak Grove whose wedding will be a social event of this month is being honored with a round of parties.

Last Sunday a tea and linen shower was given by Mrs. William Byargeon in her home in Oak Grove for over a hundred guests between the hours of 4 and 6.

Miss Doris Bradley was in charge of the guest book and Mrs. Ace Brown, Mrs. Clifton Chambless, Mrs. Howard Brown and Mrs. T.J. Nix assisted in serving.

The tea table was centered with a large bouquet of rose colored dahlias and chrysanthemums, from which the punch and cakes were served.

Mrs. Ed Cannon and Mrs. Marvin Lee also complimented Miss Gay with a tea in the Cannon home on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Cannon greeted the guests at the door while Mrs. Lee, Miss Gay and her mother, Mrs. Gay received in the reception room.

Pink gladioli and white pom pon mums decorated the tea table where Mrs. Bill Lee of Monroe poured punch. Miss Sally Sue Greer assisted in serving.

A hundred guests called between the hours of 3:30 and 6:30 in the afternoon.

Proportion Is Factor In Hair Styling

Teen - agers, when choosing a hair style, do you consider the full length of you, from head to toes? Your friends don't look at a hair style or even a head, alone. They see you as a unit.

Therefore, have a full - length mirror as your guide when choosing a fall hair style. And a hand mirror as well so that you can check the sides and rear.

1. A head that's disproportionately large in relation to the body will look even more so with a bushy, built - out hair style. This girl should have her hair tapered close to her head, and neatly shaped for a smaller-looking head.

2. A tall, lean girl can avoid seeming to touch the sky if she wears her hair flat on top. In many cases she can wear it fairly long, at least to cover the back of her neck.

3. A short, plump girl will seem even more so with a round or square hair style. The outline should be small and neat.

4. Keep wide hips balanced with a hair style that's also a little wide or you'll be out of proportion.

Cologne Is Cooling

Your before - bed shower may leave you cool and clean for a while. But, before you know it, prickly heat and damp beads of perspiration have crept up on you.

During a heat wave, a box of cotton and a bottle of cologne — in a dry, light scent — at your bedside table can provide a lazy way to refresh yourself again. Don't climb out of bed — just reach for a piece of cotton, saturate it and wipe off the damp spots. The alcohol will evaporate almost immediately and with it the perspiration. In its place will be a sleep-compelling fragrance.

A bottle of cologne in the refrigerator can be a help when you have only a few minutes to freshen up before sitting down to a dinner you've heated yourself up to cook. Again, have cotton handy. Wipe off your hairline, back of neck, or any clammy spot that you can reach.

If you haven't time to give uncomfortable feet a special bath, you can at least take a minute or two to remove stockings and shoes and cleanse with cologne-saturated cotton.

In these ways, and myriad others you'll think of, you can keep femininely cool and clean this summer with cologne.

Your Problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Mrs. Landers: We have been married for three years and live in a new suburban community. Next door to us is another young couple with whom we have been very friendly. We have parties, outings and just about do everything together. Of late, after a few drinks, my husband and the other man's wife team up together. They kiss one another and make no bones about it. The girl's husband and I are thrown together and while I like and admire him I couldn't think of letting him kiss me (he has tried) because I love my husband.

Do you think I have cause to worry or is it just the drinks? My husband says it is all good, clean fun and that I know he loves me. Please advise me. Mary Ann

"Love your neighbor, yet pull not down your hedge." The very fact that neighbors live so close should preclude any intimacy or familiarity. It is too easy, when you become such bosom friends, to borrow, lend, fight, be jealous, quarrel about children, dogs and gardens . . . and, to "covet thy neighbor's wife!"

Yes, I do think you have cause to worry. Not because your husband means to be unfaithful but because drifting into an affair (or near-affair) is being made too easy by proximity. Better cool off the relationship between you and your neighbor by establishing another with friends farther away. Keep your "Hedges" up.

Dear Mrs. Landers: Eight years ago when I refused to give my wife a divorce, we went through a painfully contested divorce case. In court she maintained that the "other man" was a figment of my brain on which basis she was granted the divorce and full custody of our boy. Immediately after a necessary six-month wait, she married the other man. I could not stand to stay, closed my business and left town for five years. I stopped supporting the boy because the other man was very well fixed financially and I thought the break should be complete.

I am now back and have been seeing my son (now 11) on holidays and birthdays, many times secretly to avoid seeing, and having trouble with, my former wife. Recently, she had the police stop me to tell me that the boy had been legally adopted by the stepfather; that I had no right to see him and that I had kidnaping in mind!

Mrs. Landers, the boy is all I have; they have two other children. Should I attempt to have the adoption set aside or leave the boy alone as, in all fairness, he has a good home.

All I want is to see him on an unemotional, man-to-man footing.

Confused.

Granted that your wife had you over the well-known legal barrel and that she deserves no consideration because she wrecked your life, the main consideration is still the boy's welfare. You had the right idea in the first place when you made the break complete. You spoiled that when you allowed the boy to become emotionally involved all over again. Now, he is no more than a football to be tossed between you and your former wife. Also, he can play you, one against the other, to gain his own ends.

However, since he is now so much aware of his own father he is entitled to the contact if he wishes it. Becaushe of that you should insist on a court order which permits you to see the boy; no one can deny you that right. ly, someone is fooling don't think the boy could legally adopted without you edge.

News From The Public Library

How long has it been since you paid a visit to your Ouachita Parish Public Library? If you are not a patron of the library you are missing a wonderful resource of pleasure as well as education. During the month of July 21,000 people in this parish borrowed 29,722 books. This was better than one book per person for the registered borrowers, but not quite one book for every two people living in the parish. I often wonder about the people of this parish who do not use the library. There are very few people who have a large enough private library to answer every question that comes up in every day life. There is a growing interest in the library and every month more books are read. The circulation during the month of July was the largest in the history of the library and was an increase of more than 400 per cent over July of 1946. In that year only 7,373 books were borrowed from the Ouachita Parish Public Library.

As more people use the library, more books are purchased to supply their demands. At the present time it consists of 38,097 books and it has almost doubled in number during the past five years. Whenever it is evident that there is a gap in any field of knowledge, the librarian immediately tries to get abreast of the new books and order them before publication date. If you will test our service, you will find that we have in stock almost any new book reviewed each week by the leading book-reviewing periodicals.

Another type of book which we are always adding to our collection is the juvenile book. There are so many lovely books for children published each month, that the juvenile collection is constantly growing. However, we need every one of these books, for we have a large number of juvenile borrowers, in fact more than one - half of our patrons are children and their interests are carefully watched.

Special emphasis on reference books has always been a strong part of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and each month one or two books are added to the reference collection. These books are expensive, but they are invaluable for finding just the sort of information that a patron wants. We are glad to answer reference questions over the telephone. When you are next in need of information, call us. We look up population figures, authors of books, spelling of words, sources of quotations, officials of state, national and foreign governments and many other questions in which our patrons are interested.

Another activity in which a great many patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library are interested is genealogical research. We have a very good collection of books which help a person to trace his ancestors. Another very valuable aid in this type of research is the use of the early census records of Louisiana. We are very fortunate to own the 1850, 1860 and 1880 census records of our state.

Still another service which the Ouachita Parish Public Library offers to its' patrons is the Consumers Research Bulletin and the Consumer Reports, which give valuable information in regard to the best buy in any type of manufactured article, such as refrigerators, stoves, deep freezes, television sets lawn mowers and washing machines and many others. Reading before you buy an expensive article is the only sensible thing to do.

Cream Lotions Ideal For Use In Summer Heat

Thick, rich cleansing creams and even light-textured ones are disagreeable in summer to many girls. Their skins have moisture that's not present in cool weather. Soap-and-water washing at frequent intervals keeps their skin fresh.

And summer sun-bathing, when not overdone, seems to benefit their skins by clearing up many annoying surface bumps. They need a night cream much less often than at other seasons of the year.

A cleanser, other than soap and water, is felt to be a necessity, however. Before girls start their washing, they want to remove the layer of make-up.

An answer to this problem of make-up removal in summer, when greasy creams are at least a nuisance, is a creamy lotion type of cleanser. This type of cleanser liquifies instantly on the skin just like the old-fashioned type of greasy liquifying cream. But this modern convenience is completely greaseless. It's homogenized for a smooth, creamy, efficient consistency right down to the last drop. Incidentally, only a few drops are needed per cleansing.

ducation Not Confined To Schools

Helping your child at school in- lves much more than seeing he ts his assignments or remem- rs to take library books or ma- terials for class. Such were the facts recently told to parents and teachers attending a conference on child development and parent education at Iowa University.

The parent who helps his child most realizes that education goes on all the time—at home, in church, at clubs as well as in school, Dr. James Hymes, Jr., professor of education at George Peabody College for Teachers, told the conference. He explained:

"The help we are giving our children involves the stories we have read together, the kind of life our youngsters are having, the pets they own, the fun they have—all these experiences feed into the child. All are a part of education. A talking, playing, music-listening, trip-taking parent helps his child best."

The best atmosphere for learning will be established for the child if the distinction between home and school becomes as vague as possible, Hymes said. This atmosphere developes best if parent and teacher are real friends, not just casual acquaintances. The teacher should be such that they can express disagreement when they feel it, Hymes explained, suggesting that one test of friendship is the degree of frankness which pervades it.

He cautioned parents to realize that success at school may mean totally different things to parent and child. To the child it consists in being a person, winning friends, being a friend, and being independent. These things the child must do on his own.

The parent may be more concerned with measures of the child's progress from an academic point of view, and his attempt to help may threaten the child's independence, Hymes said.

Mildew Shuns Clean, Well Kept Gardens

By HENRY PREE
Written for NEA Serivce

Mildew is the common name for certain types of fungi and for the diseases they cause. Particularly annoying to the gardener, especially he who grows roses is the powdery mildew on the leaves. While mildew is more prevalent in cloudy, humi dweather, it seems to hang on well along the cool of autumn.

Roses, lilacs, phlox, zinnias and many plants grown in shade are particularly susceptible to attack. The young shoots, leaves and buds may be curled and distorted and the entire plant may be somewhat dwarfed.

Fortunately mildew can be held in check by the regular use of a dust or spray containing sulfur, or by using sulfur alone.

Unfortunately, however, few folks are regular in their garden practices and the grayish-white

powdery growth is present on the foliage before the gardener is aware of its disfiguring effects. A wettable sulfur spray, to which a suitable detergent has been added, is probably the best method of control, provided the temperature is below ninety. Copper fungicide and certain proprietory mixtures are also good. The gardener must be sure that the spray wets both sides of the leaves.

Dr. P. P. Pirone, plant pathologist, New York Botanical Garden, in his book, "Modern Gardening," places emphasis on hygienic surroundings.

"Plants in a well-kept garden in which rigid sanitary measures are practiced are less likely to become diseased than those in a weedy, neglected, over-crowded garden. Mildew is always less prevalent when the plants have plenty of room," writes Dr. Pirone.

"Clean up the garden each fall. This is especially important where roses and perennials are grown, for it has been demonstrated time and again that the removal and burning of all above - ground diseased parts of most perenial plants will reduce disease incidence materially the following year.

"The facts are that a great many bacterial and fungus organisms live over winter in decaying plant parts. Unless such diseased parts are burned in the fall, the disease-producing organisms will return to the soil and will be ready to produce new infections the following spring and summer. Some will argue that composting such material will destroy the parasites. My observations have revealed that few gardeners make the right kind of compost pile and that the rasitic organisms are not destroyed in such piles.

"Among the diseases that can be kept in check or greatly reduced by a thorough fall cleaning are iris leafspot, crown rot of iris, bud blast of peonies, hollyhock rust and phlox mildew. Nor should garden sanitation be restricted to the fall cleanup. It should be an all - season affair."

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Q—The question of when to prune flowering shrubs is a debatable one in our home. When should forsythia, lilacs, rhododendrons and azaleas be pruned?

A—Theoretically, shrubs should be pruned soon after their flowers have faded If the shrubs are large and old then remove one third of the oldest branches or canes each year; otherwise remove only the faded flowers. Little or no pruning of rhododendron and azaleas is necessary. Remove only broken or stragly growth.

Q—How deep should a bird bath be? The birds avoid our fairly large six-inch-deep basin, yet patronize a small one in the neighbor's yard.

A—Most birds do not like to swim; they love to stand and splatter. The maximum depth for the water in a good bird bath is between two and tree inches. . . .

A—The answer is no. As far as the health of a tree or shrub is concerned, pruning can be done almost anytime.

Early flowering shrubs like lilacs are best pruned shortly after the flowers have faded, thus avoiding the danger of cutting off the buds for next season's bloom.

Q—Is it too late to sow sunflower seed? We want the plants both as a screen and to provide feed for the birds next winter.

A—Yes, with one of the inoculants made especially for sweet and garden peas. Treatment stimuates the ability of the plants to obtain nitrogen from the air.

Q—Will Coleus plants thrive in a shady location?

A—Yes—but much of the color will be lost from the leaves, so grow them in sunny situation for best results.

Q—The lower foliage on our hollyhocks have turned a rust color and apparently passed on. What causes this and what is the cure?

A—Hollyhock rust, a serious disease, cannot be cured but several spring applications of sulfur dust on the underside of the leaves will reduce rust to a minimum. In addition remove and burn all infected leaves now—and repeat in late autumn when cleaning up the garden.

The Home Shift With

This column is being written a week in advance due to the fact that I'll be in Baton Rouge all next week. I hope I'll be "drenched" with information learned at Farm and Home Short Course. Whatever "the learning," I'll bring it to you through this column.

Food News

Potato production is ahead of 1952 yields. New produce is more plentiful since the rains. Peaches are plentiful and cheaper than last year. Cottage cheese is on the plentiful foods list. It ranks alongside meat in protein, the body building material, which means it can be substituted for lean meat in the menu. Cottage cheese has more calcium than meat but not as much iron.

Cottage cheese can be served plain with salt and pepper. Other housewives prefer to dress it up with fruit slices, green pepper, pimentos or onions. Or it can go into cooling congealed salads. Scrambled eggs with cottage cheese provide a high protein dish.

Many years ago, Cele Davis Parker specialized in a cottage cheese sandwich that was so very good. You'll have to ask her how she prepared her mix. I can't get in touch with Cele as I write this.

Landscaping

As summer draws to a close we begin to think of the planting we'll do to pep up our gardens. For the benefit of the new gardeners, we don't plant shrubs or trees until the sap goes down and that's December, January and February. I know you'd like to get something growing now, but just draw off your shrubbery beds, get them well worked and mulched. You'll have an upper hand on the weeds and grass if you'll put that mulch very deep. This winter, pull the mulch back and plant. I'm quoting somebody I can't remember who when I say make a five dollar hole to plant a fifty cent shrub.

If some foundation plants need to be replaced remember to put a large plant to frame the building at the corner, neat low plants at the doorway to emphasize that unit and low masses to connect them. Some of the new, low roofed houses don't need continuous planting. Often a corner planting and doorway group is all that is needed.

If you have a large plain wall, a tracery of vine or a plant in espaliered fashion is tailored and attractive.

Have you ever seen anything like the evolution of the backyard in the last generation? It has "evolved" from an ash pile and chicken yard to a flower garden. We, the housewives, see this part of our gardens more than any other. That's where we want some year round bloom, shade and berried shrubs to attract the birds; a comfortable chair or two where we can slip off our shoes and shell the peas for dinner. The monthly garden magazines are a wonderful help when you're planning. Use them.

Around Town

Have you noticed the yucca plants growing in the planters at the back of York's Children's Shop They're blooming, bearing their tall stately spikes of creamy white bell-like flowers. This is the yucca filamentosa. The blossoms and the foliage are lovely in arrangements. They grow well in north Louisiana gardens.

The T. H. Scott yard at 1912 North 3rd always looks so cool and inviting. They have a thick, well cared for sod of St. Augustine. The two groups of pines just seem to have come up there of their own accord. I remember, though, when Winnie Beamon (former owner) planted them about twenty-three years ago.

It seems there are some "do's and don'ts" about wearing bow ties They can't be worn with all collar styles. The rounded collar, the short point and the short - point-button - down - collar require a long tie. A bow tie is fine with spread collar, regular button-down and regular long point collar. If you can get a man to wear a bow tie once, he'll wear them forever, because most men look well in them. You can get them in pretied to clip on, or the kind you tie yourself in the regular or shoestring style.

If you're leaving for a vacation lock all doors, windows and other entrances. Leave the key with a neighbor (not under the doormat) Leave the shades and blinds in the haphazard fashion you do when you're at home. Leave a light burning. The small investment in electricity can mean a large investment in security.

Notify the newspaper, milkman and post office. Make arrangement to have the lawn mowed while away, to show signs of activity. Don't leave valuables around. Put them in a safe deposit box. If you take these precautions you'll enjoy your vacation more, knowing things are safe at home.

Crabgrass is full of seeds at this time of the year. It is important to try to keep the lawn where crabgrass exists cut frequently in order to eliminate at least some of the seeds or prevent them from forming. The best time to start a program to eliminate crabgrass with the chemicals that are on the market for this purpose is in spring or early summer. You have to keep at it with the chemicals strictly by directions which come with them or the crabgrass will almost certainly win the battle. These chemicals are remarkably successful, however, when gardeners do use them on a lawn according to a regular program. The chemicals eliminate a lot of the crabgrass by preventing the seed from coming up in the first place. There are several well known products advertised in the gardening magazines and the seed stores.

Do not let dahlias, chrysanthemums, Japanese anemones nor any of the other fall flowering perennials suffer for water from now till blooming time. If borers get into the stalks of your dahlias, see if you cannot kill them with a wire stuck down into the hollow stem. If they are bad, DDT will prevent any more from attacking your dahlias. This is not the time to be feeding fall flowering plants heavily with fertilizer, but if you have starved your chrysanthemums all summer and they look bad, you might give them two week feedings of a complete fertilizer about ten days apart. This much food will probably revive them enough to give you some flowers. Take the plants up next spring and divide them and reset them in good soil.

Calendulas, petunias and sweet alyssum will flower before frost if you plant the seeds immediately. These three flowers are really quite hardy to the cold. If you will give the plants a little protection from frosts, you will have flowers from them right up till very cold weather. Then you can lift a few clumps and pot them up for the house for Christmas and put others into a cold frame to bloom for a while. All three kinds will probably survive the winter and be ready to burst into a lusty crop of bloom the first thing in the spring. While snapdragons will not usually bloom very much, you can treat them the same way. The plants will develop during the fall, winter and early spring and be the best thing in your spring garden next year. Calendulas raised this way and potted or planted right in the pots — five-inch pots are a convenient size — will make fine Christmas presents. The calendula is really an excellent house plant for cool houses if it can have a sunny window. Its orange and yellow blossoms are most cheerful during the winter months. Anyone who can raise ferns and other house plants in his house can grow calendulas with ease.

This is the time of year when the column makes it a regular policy to remind every one to clean out their boxwood bushes of all kinds because of the danger of nectria canker (volutella blight). The high temperatures and the drouths of summer have taken great toll of boxwood this year all over the south by allowing red spider to run rampant over boxwood leaves. The foliage looks as if it had been scratched with a pin all over. Rains will now wake up the spores of nectria canker if you do not clean out all the old dead wood and twigs with a good brush. Cut off everything that is actually dead and burn it. When you are through with the job, spray each bush immediately with summer strength lime sulphur — one part lime sulphur to forty parts water. This will help hold down the activity of the canker during hot "muggy" weather that comes in late August and in September sometimes.

The column has received questions about the beautiful night-blooming cereus. These plants are relatively easy to grow. You just need a cool greenhouse or a spot for them in the house during winter. From their time of flowering on — usually late summer — they become almost dormant and do not need much water and no plant food. When they begin to grow in spring, however, you should give them plenty of water frequently and feed them. The soil for all the kinds of these cactuses should have enough coarse sand in it so that it will always drain and not become soggy, but the plants will really grow in almost any good potting soil. When you first pot your plants set a good strong stake into the pot all the way to the bottom because these cactuses are apt to grow quite tall and will surely need some support in a season or so. After you become accustomed to handling them, you will probably keep some young ones coming on from sections rooted by just sticking them into pots of soil during the winter. The large plants are very handsome but grow out of bounds in four or five years. They tend to grow up in the air and then hang over into space. For this reason, it is necessary to support them in some way. Very large specimens, where there is room for them, can be allowed to grow up four or five feet and then spill over a frame — circular or square set up for this purpose. In the southern states, there are many different kinds of night blooming cereus. If you wish to look them up in books, look under the Latin names: Harrisia, Selenicereus, Hylocereus and Nyctocereus. Do not get the idea that they are difficult to grow. They are some of the easiest, and the flowers are showier than almost any flowers we grow in pots.

How To Be A Successful Hostess

Now that you have planned and carried out arrangements for the perfect party, don't spoil it all by the way you play hostess.

Of course you know that you and your husband should be in the living room at least five minutes before the hour at which your guests are invited and that all should have a warm welcome and equal and impartial attention.

But there are many more things to remember if you want to be a successful hostess—and many of them start with "don't."

Above all, don't be one of the flutterers, constantly darting about emptying ashtrays, or asking if your guests would not like this or that. This can create such a nervous atmosphere that it ruins a party. Try for that happy medium which is alert, but relaxed, and—if you have no servants—let your guests wait on themselves a bit.

Don't display annoyance if a guest is late. If one is delayed, it is gracious to wait a few minutes after the dinner hour—20 at most—and then have dinner served. When the late guest does arrive, pass it off as smoothly and kindly as possible, and let the party roll on.

Don't be irked if anything goes wrong. If a beautiful piece of china is broken or your costliest rug stained with coffee, keep your face and manner serene. Remember the one who did the damage feels far worse then you, and there is a place for kindness, if there ever was one. Say it doesn't matter and do whatever else you can to put the damager at ease.

Don't be so eager to keep the conversation from dying that you bounce into every second's silence with another subject. Of course the conversation shouldn't really die or get into a rut. But a few short silences won't do it any harm.

As hostess, of course, you are responsible for keeping the talk flowing smoothly and for steering it away from troubled shoals. The way to do this most skillfully is to give considerable thought to your guests, their interests and some topics of general interest before your party begins. Then, when a pocket of silence opens, you will have something to drop into to easily to start conversation again.

Don't make your guests watch television all evening unless you know that they want to. It may put a strain on the eyes of some and it will be kinder to learn their preferences first.

Finally, don't interrupt your husband's stories, even if he does not tell them ver, well. Better let him prove it, than to prove that you married a fussbudget or a shrew

UHF TELEVISION IS HERE...

Be Sure to Ask these Questions About the Television Set You Buy

1. Is it a mere "one or two-station set" or is it equipped to receive ALL AUTHORIZED STATIONS whose signals will be received in this area?

2. Does it have a complete BUILT-IN AERIAL FOR UHF or do you have to erect an expensive separate outside aerial to receive UHF stations?

3. Will it give you as good picture quality and PERFORMANCE ON UHF as it does on the VHF stations for which it was originally designed?

1. For this area, the map shows VHF stations allocated within 75 miles and UHF stations within 50 miles. For these new UHF stations, Philco offers not a mere one or two-channel tuner that may soon be obsolete . . . not a "strip-type" adaptation of questionable performance . . . but a carefully-engineered, Philco-developed ALL-CHANNEL UHF TUNER which will bring in all UHF stations whose signals will be received locally. No expense for changing strips when new stations go on the air! No inconvenience! Full coverage—not partial! Yes, the most complete and economical UHF service in television today and for years to come—Don't Settle for Less!

2. UHF television requires a special aerial—even if you already have a roof-top VHF aerial, it will not be suitable for the local UHF station. Here again, Philco is ready with America's first Built-In Aerial for both UHF and VHF reception . . . yes, completely concealed inside the cabinet. In up to 8 out of 10 locations no other aerial of any kind is needed for UHF . . . "just plug in and play". Thus it may easily be that this exclusive Philco development can save you $25 or more over the cost of a separate outside aerial. Ask about it when you buy . . . look for the directional aerial control knob that you will find only on the back of Philco sets.

3. For UHF reception as well as VHF, Philco brings you the newest developments of television science. Far more than a makeshift adaptation, Philco's All-Channel UHF Tuner is a masterpiece of electronic research and will bring you the finest UHF performance on the market today. Compare it for picture quality and sensitivity. Compare it for freedom from noise and interference. Compare it for sound. It's unmatched anywhere, thanks to Philco advance engineering.

Don't Settle for Less!

Yes, Philco brings you full coverage—not a "one or two-station" set . . . full performance—not an old-style VHF tuner merely adapted for UHF. Get all the facts before you buy . . . choose an All-Channel Philco with exclusive UHF-VHF directional Built-In Aerial System . . . it's your answer to the fullest enjoyment of all the new stations when they go on the air.

Sea Monster Rips Modern City In Film

The fascinating tale of a prehistoric monster that comes back to life to attack a modern - day city is told in "The Beast From 20,000 Fathoms," Warner Brothers presentation opening Thursday at the Paramount.

The picture relates the fabulous story of a dinosaur which had been buried in the ice of a North Pole iceberg for 100 million years until freed by an experimental atomic blast. Making its way down the Atlantic coast to the U. S. shores, it forges inland on a bustling metropolis. Authentic reproductions of the ponderous beast and the havoc it wreaks are seen in the film.

Towering over the streets of the city, the beast plunges the metropolis into panic as it leaves a path of death and destruction — hurtling automobiles about like toys, and crashing the walls of the buildings.

Paul Christian, who became an actor under the direction of the world - famed Max Reinhardt Drama School, plays the role of a young nuclear scientist who first discovers the beast from the Mesozoic era. It is largely through his efforts that the beast is destroyed after it attacks the city with all the blind fury of its multi-ton bulk.

Lovely Paula Raymond does more than provide the usual feminine interest in "The Beast From 20,000 Fathoms." She plays the role of a paleontologist's efficient assistant who is also a beautiful and alluring woman when she leaves the laboratory.

To gain a true perspective of a prehistoric monster, an actual mechanical beast was constructed in full scale. Weighing over 50 tons the "beast" was capable of moving its scaly head, opening its cavernous jaws, even rolling its eyes. Built at a cost of $25,000 the beast worked in the film five weeks.

Another feat of construction was the erection of an iceberg. Thirty tons of plaster, ten tons of salt, 500 pounds of cornflakes and forty tons of ice were needed to duplicate the icy wastes of the far north.

Produced by Jack Dietz, "The Beast From 20,000 Fathoms," also stars Cecil Kellaway and Kenneth Tobel. Eugene Lourie directed.

Donald O'Connor Has Rare Fever

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Donald O'Connor's illness has been diagnosed as Q fever, a rare, vitus-like infection that occurs in the South Pacific, Far East and American Midwest.

O'Connor is in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital and intermittently has been running temperatures of 102 or 103, with periods of chilling, says his physician, Dr. Irving Lasky.

The actor is being given antibiotics and it is uncertain when he will be able to leave the hospital.

June Haver Near End Of First Step To Become Nun

XAVIER, Kan., Aug. 15—UP—Beautiful June Haver, who gave up a $3,500-per-week movie salary last February to enter a Catholic convent, is near the end of the first milestone in becoming a nun.

The blue-eyed blonde will complete her probationary period within the next few days and will don the novice habit of a Sister of Charity.

When she dons the habit, sometime between now and Aug. 22, she also will receive a new name.

Mother Mary Ancilla of St. Mary's Convent, near Leavenworth Kan., said Miss Haver's training would continue for another 18 months, the customary period, and at the end of that time, the novitiates in her group, numbering 77, will take vows for the first time.

"When they take their vows for the first time," Mother Ancilla said, "they become full - fledged sisters of Charity. But for only one year. They will repeat those vows for each of the next three years before they are qualified to take lifetime vows."

Mother Ancilla said the one-time singing and dancing star is "staying in the background" as a novitiate. She said both the convent and Miss Haver wanted it that way.

Board Member Names Can Be Suggested By Civic Clubs

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 15 — Civic organizations of the state were reminded today by Gov. Robert Kennon of their opportunity to participate in the selection of state board members through submission of names to the "state boards panel."

Under the new constitutional amendments, civic organizations which are chartered by the state or which hold annual conventions are entitled to recommend persons for the Boards of Institutions and Welfare. Individuals may also make recommendations.

Names for appointment to the highway board may be made by governing bodies of the various parishes.

Thus far, according to the office of secretary of state, Wade O. Martin, Jr., very few organizations have taken advantage of the opportunity to submit names to these panels.

"It is my hope," Governor Kennon said today, "that many organizations of the state will quickly participate in this democratic opportunity to recommend persons to key state positions."

Recommendations for the board panels should be forwarded to the secretary of state who is authorized under the law to maintain the records of those named to the State Boards Panel.

The University of Alaska was founded in 1922 at Juneau.

By Josephine Lawman

Once in a long time you will meet someone who is not only charming, but also has "glow."

A Dream To Accomplish Can Make Charm Glow

We often meet charming people, and once in a long time, if we are lucky, we meet one who is not only charming, but also has "glow." I do not know what else to call it!

In trying to analyze "glow" I find that it includes simplicity and naturalness in manner and attitude, a vibrant love of life and of people, a sensitive perceptive spirit, sincerity, magnetism which comes from all of these qualities, and also from a contageously keen enthusiasm. More than all, it probably comes from giving oneself to life and to others.

Not long ago I had the delightful privilege of spending a day with Inez Henry, who is carrying on the tradition of Martha Berry who founded The Berry Schools years ago in Georgia. Not only does Inez have the qualities I have already mentioned, but she also has a keen appreciative sense of humor. She could easily be on the stage because she is such a wonderful mimic, but most important, after being with her you feel comforted and warm, and believe that the world is a fine place to be in.

Makes Life Richer

I am writing about her today because in her I found so many of those characterists which I believe would make life so much richer, so much happier, so much more adventurous, and so much healthier, if we could all develop them. Synthetic charm for which so many women strive, when compared to the charm of Inez, is as feeble as a candle's flicker when compared to a skyrocket.

I am not at all certain that my subject will like this column because, although she is loved and admired by many distinguished and famous people and by thousands of poor (in money) boys and girls, she has never given interviews herself because she sees no reason for doing so. In the first place she does not consider herself important or interesting enough, but more that that, she would begrudge the time required for every spoken word and the space needed for every written word. She had much rather spend these on The Berry Schools.

Would Dispel Aches

That is what every human being needs; a large view of life as a whole which blots out the daily hecticness and discouragements, a goal to shoot for, a dream to make come true. Boredom would be banished from the world, and we can safely say, with present day knowledge of psychosomatic medisine, that many current headaches and backaches and heartaches, and other disabilities, would also disappear.

If we cannot all have a dream Inez Henry has, at least we can have some dream. The sad thing is that most humans do have dreams bigger than themselves but they let them fall by the wayside. Somehow they become tarnished and anemic in the pressures of daily living. This is human and understandable but don't let it happen to you!

Believe in something, but believe in it entirely, without doubts, whether it is a school, a career, an idea, or a man or a woman.

IT CAME FROM OUTER SPACE-Richard Carlson and Barbara Rush, are starred in Universal-International's first three-dimension film, "It Came From Outer Space," adapted for the screen from a story by Ray Bradbury, America's top science-fiction writer. Complete secrecy cloaked the filming of "It Came From Outer Space." Jack Arnold directed and William Alland produced.

Seeing is just as much an acquired art and skill as dancing or playing the piano, says the Better Vision Institute.

New 3-D Movie Shows Invasion By Martians

Science - fiction at its exciting best, strongly embellished with the ultra - realism of the screen's newest and most daring innovation, Third Dimension, strikes with the impact of a Martian invasion today at the Jim Theatre with the opening of Universal - International's "It Came from Outer Space."

Much has been written regarding Three Dimension films in recent months and much will be written concerning the subject during the months to come and it appears obvious at this time that each new Three Dimension film will be compared with the previous 3-D offerings.

The reaction to the Three Dimension presentation of "It Came From Outer Space" establishes sufficient proof that any succeeding film employing the same camera technique will have a high technical hurdle to overcome. Universal-International has performed a masterful chore in bringing to the screen its first Three Dimension film.

The studio also rates praise in associating the writing talents of Ray Bradbury, recognized dean of America's science - fiction writers, with its first venture into the realm of Three - Dimension. "It Came From Outer Space" was written for the screen by Harry Essex from an original story by Bradbury.

Those in the audience, like the players on the screen, find themselves succumbing to a weird spell cast by unseen but audible "things" from the celestial orbit as this strange story unfolds.

"It Came From Outer Space" stars Richard Carlson and Barbara Rush and concerns mysterious "visitors" from space who conquer mortals mentally and have the power to assume various forms including that of the human being.

As his feminine co-star, Barbara Rush offers an exciting portrayal of the young school teacher who aids Carlson in his courageous battle with the space world.

"It Came From Outer Space" represents an adventure in moviegoing that will be remembered for years. Its excellent cinematography technique gives each viewer an "I Was There" feeling.

'Dream Wife' Is Romantic Comedy, Now At The Tem

Sparked by amusing dialogue, inventive characterizations and ribtickling comedy antics, "Dream Wife" brings Cary Grant, Deborah Kerr, Walter Pidgeon and Broadway's musical-comedy star, Betta St. John, to the Tem screen in a romantic story as novel as it is hilarious.

Here is the situation of this new M-G-M laugh hit. A young and successful American business man, engaged to a career girl with the State Department, goes to the Middle East on business and is captivated by a lovely young princess who from birth has been taught the art of making a man happy. Returning to this country, Clem is made strikingly aware of the contrast between the seductive Princess Tarji, who anticipates his every wish, and the over-efficient Effie, who seems more zealous about her international duties than in the happiness and comforts of her groom-to-be. A quarrel ends their engagement and Clem promptly proposes to Tarji by cable, with the result that she arrives in New York with an imposing entourage, a language all her own and a host of Eastern taboos in regard to kissing or embracing before marriage. By the time Clem has gotten himself up to his neck in difficulties (and the whole party in jail!) in a futile effort to make East meet West, the heretofore submissive Tarji has learned a thing or two about the emancipation of American women. What follows makes for action and hilarity which has one laugh following another with breakneck speed.

Producer Dore Schary and Director Sidney Sheldon, who teamed together previously on the successful "The Bachelor and the Bobby-Soxer," have come up with a new box-office winner in "Dream Wife." They have also come up with one of the year's most sparkling comedy casts.

Cary Grant, who scored one of his biggest hits in the earlier film, again reveals his inimitable flair for suave comedy in the role of Clem, the typical young American who likes to be petted and pampered but who, above all, insists on wearing the pants. Deborah Kerr, usually seen in dramatic parts, proves herself equally deft as a comedienne as Effie, who thinks she can mix a full-time career with a part-time husband. Walter Pidgeon is completely at home as the over-bearing State Department official who wants to run Clem's love life according to protocol, while Betta St. John, lately of the New York and London casts of "South Pacific," makes a captivating film debut in the role of the exotic Tarji, and is also given an opportunity to use her delightful singing voice in two songs especially written for the production.

If a boy in El Salvador wants to serenade his girl friend in traditional Spanish fashion he must first pay $2 for a permit.

S. C. S. groups. Each member of the Louisiana conference of W. S. C. S. is expected to contribute 25 cents to the Louisiana Moral and Civic Foundation in their program of education of youth of our state in the evil effects of alcohol and other narcotics.

The members met in special prayer session to pray for the success of the revival to be held at this church Aug. 16-23. Formation of prayer groups is under the direction of Mrs. Mary Arledge and the spiritual life committee.

Bible Words to Live by

JOHN 10:10. "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

* * *

In these words we find the keynote to the purpose of the coming of Jesus of Nazareth among men. All of us want to live, we want to get the most out of life, and the word "abundant" is a catchy one indeed. Through the centuries men have sought for personal wealth, for personal gain and honor, and when they came in conflict with their fellows they used every means at hand to defeat an opponent. Following this procedure, history is a record of unhappiness and meaningless living. Jesus came to change this attitude and this manner of living. The roots of His teachings were in the Ten Commandments, which are timeless and ageless. But on beyond a legal concept He holds up the ideal of love, faith, trust, unselfishness, and a devotion to the welfare of mankind.

Life to Jesus was vastly more than an existence, it meant exuberant, happy living. Happy living can only come when God is allowed to direct us in the pathways of unselfish service. Hence, not only the challenge of this great text, but its incomparable promise that when we seek His ways, we shall live joyously, abundantly—yes, eternally.

Bible Comment

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

In Jesus of Nazareth we see the portrayal and record of a life wholly human. He called Himself "the Son of Man," and He is called "the man Christ Jesus" (1 Timothy 2:5).

We have the story of Jesus from babyhood to manhood. and the emphasis upon His humanity is as clear in the details of His experience as it is in the records and testimony of the disciples who believed in Him. He knew hunger and thirst. He needed rest and sleep. He wept with sorrowing friends, and spiritually He felt the need of prayer. One testimony is that He was "in all points tempted like as we are" (Hebrews 4:15).

Yet in its uniqueness, that earthly life was "without sin," and in that sinless life the Christian disciples saw the incarnation of the Eternal Christ. The life of Jesus of Nazareth from the Manger to the Cross, and beyond that to the Resurrection, was the revelation in time and human affairs of an eternal and divine life. Jesus was the incarnation of the Word that had been, from the beginning, the Word that was in God, and tha was God.

It is not only in the first chapte of the Gospel of John that all th is expressed. It is emphasized r peatedly in the Epistles of Paul, i the Epistle to the Hebrews and i other parts of the New Testamen

All this we express in our belie and creeds. Yet I think for mo of us it launches us out into realm beyond our comprehensio What I am impressed with is th fact that it was the earthly li of Jesus that led those who kne Him, and those who received the testimony, to believe that He wa not only the Son of Man, but als the Son of God, in a special an eternal sense beyond that in whic we are all children of God.

I have long believed, also, tha if we are to believe in and kno the Eternal Christ, beyond the fo mal repeating of creeds, it mu be through knowing that earth Jesus as His disciples knew Hi It is as we feel His supremacy man that we feel and know th God was in Christ, as Paul e presses it (II Corinthians 5:19), that we are impelled to cry ou with Peter, "Thou art the Chri the Son of the living God."

We may not be able to kno or express, all that means, b it has for us a sense of the va ness and completeness of all thin in heaven and in earth—the fu ness of truth and righteousne as well as of love and mercy a grace and freedom.

So, in the Eternal Christ, kno through the earthly Jesus, t Christian lives in an eternal e vironment. "The Gift of God is et nal life through Jesus Christ o Lord" (Romans 6:23).

But all the mystery and grea ness concentrate on that earth life of Jesus, portrayed in the fo Gospels. It is there that the sup macy of Jesus is made plain. F the reader of those Gospels to it is as true as it was for th who heard and recorded the wo of Jesus, words that never man spake, and never man so lived

The supremacy of Jesus has be the deep and abiding faith of ma who have been far apart, inso as formal creeds and metaphy cal conceptions have been c cerned.

Your Child...
Needs Religious Training

HE'LL SOON BE BACK IN SCHOOL

OUR SCHOOLS ARE AMONG THE BEST

There will be many little boys and girls off to new experiences in a few weeks when they enter school for the first time or go back to enter a higher grade. Most of their early knowledge was acquired within the family circle and from intimate friends.

Life at its best is a long and difficult trail for your child. He will encounter the good and the bad, the false and the true. There will be the thrill of new experiences on the road to achievement or failure. Every day is a momentous day in the life of a child and much depends on what he has learned from his home environment, his church and Sunday school. His ideals and mental attitude will reflect the true spirit of his training. He will learn his ABC's in school but will he learn about eternity?

WHAT DOES HE KNOW ABOUT JESUS?

Does your child attend Sunday school and church on Sunday, mom and dad? Do you go with your child to these services? It is necessary for little boys and girls to go to school to be a success in life. How much more important it is for these same little fellows to know that Jesus gave His life on the cross to save us from our sins. What your child learns in early life will have a great bearing on where his soul will spend eternity. There are only two places that one can choose to spend eternity. Every one must make his own choice. Won't you bring your child to Sunday school? It's so easy for a child to learn . . . "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3-16).

Philosophy Of A Returned Vacationer

Getting back from vacation has some advantages, hard as it may seem to believe it.

In view of the fact that there inevitably comes that Monday when the long anticipated holiday is just a memory, the return-from-vacation period might just as well be put to some use.

Speaking personally, I don't think that it is of particular importance whether or not one is eager to return to the realities of making a living.

A bustling, bright-eyed and energetic returnee may be a fellow who just loves his job, but he may also be a guy who had a wretched time at a front-porch, dress-for-dinner mountain resort when he yearned for the deck of a sail boat and a fighting fish on the end of a line.

Conversely, the returning wage slave, reluctantly dragging back to the office, may loathe his job, but again he may have landed home the night before after a 6,000 mile automobile trip, found the garden full of weeds, the caller full of condensation and a report from camp that the kids have chickenpox.

Climbing back into the business rut after vacation serves most usefully, I believe, as a period for study of one's reactions. After a couple of weeks—or longer if you're lucky—of change of environment and freedom from the day-in, day-out irritations of living, it is interesting to discover if the causes are your own evil disposition and fatigue or whether they are really annoying.

Before I went away, I would cheerfully have murdered an early-bird neighbor with an irresistible urge to clip his hedge a few minutes after dawn on Saturdays. Upon my return, I find him a sensible fellow who is merely beating the heat. I shall join him in early morning chores and loll in the afternoon shade when my late-sleeping neighbors are toiling in the broiling sun and muttering about the impossibility of getting a decent night's sleep.

I was bored with neighborhood coffee klatches centering on the bright red shade of an absent neighbor's hair. And I find I'm just as bored with post-vacation discussions about the platinum blonde shade which the same hair assumed during my absence.

My annoyance continues unabated with characters who have their secretaries call me on the telephone and then keep me dangling while the secretaries try to find their employers. But in a sweet, post-vacation mood, I quietly hang up the phone without permitting my blood pressure to rise a single point.

A pleasant fellow-employee used to irritate a bit by remarking "Howdy-doody," every single time we met, mugging violently and indicating he was making a very funny joke. He's still at it, but he's pleasant, good humored and cheerful, and there really aren't enough of such types around.

Trains are still running erratically, and people stil wil try to sneak cigarettes into "No Smoking" coaches, and the little men in charge of running air conditioning plants never seem to be guided by the condition of the weather in the streets, taxidrivers still ram their opinions down one's throat, and the news vendors hide the later editions under a pile of earlier ones, but none of these seem to matter as much as they did before I got away from it all for a short period.

My conclusion is that the most irritating things in my life are irritations I set up within myself. Any vacation is worthwhile if you can come away from it with even that much.

DIETITIAN' — Mrs. Lewis T. Bivins, who recently completed an advanced course of study in the dietitian's workshop at L. S. U., was elected to represent all the schools of Ouachita Parish as special delegate of the School Food Service Association. Mrs. Bivins is dietitian and manager of the Plum Street School of Monroe.

Mobile Jewelry Makes Big Hit

PAIRS—Golden butterflies with movable wings are being introduced here as a piquant variation in modern jewelry. There are also gem - rimmed roses which open from bud to bloom like real flowers.

There's even economy in it, if such a word can be used with trinkets of such price. A lovely four-winged butterfly will serve as three ornaments in one.

Put its golden mesh wings back to back, like a butterfly's when it clings to a leaf in hiding, and have a modest little brightener for the suit lapel on a shopping tour. Pause for afternoon tea, put the four wings horizontal to show more gold, but keep them close together for trim and tailored mood.

Without jewels, a gold butterfly of moderate, real-life size can be bought for a modest 55,000 francs (around $156). If you covet one with tiny emeralds, diamonds and rubies bordering the wings, and two big gems on the lower ones to simulate eye-markings of the butterfly, it will cost $3,000.

Mellerio carries out his papilion or butterfly theme, too, in a new design for glasses, adroitly ornamental for evening wear. The frames, feather-light, form curving eyebrows which cleverly conceal the real ones underneath. They are daintily studded with tiny diamonds. One model has sapphires halfway across to temple, to enhance blue eyes below. The lenses suggest butterfly wings, coming to an upturned peak at each temple The frames cost about $1,000 the pair.

One stunning piece is cunningly contrived in perfect imitation of a real rose, with some of the golden petals slightly curled at the edges. Each petal is border d with rubies, emeralds and diamonds, and each is individually adjustable, so that the rose can appear at any stage of bloom. The flower's heart is jewelled, and diamonds thread the central vein of each golden leaf.

At the formal showing of his new designs, Mellerio displayed a dazzling diamond necklace which does several quick-change acts. Not only can part of it be used as a tiara (this idea is not ne of course) but with the front s tion detached, what remains turned into a sort of diame stole, when a pendant is attach to each end. The pendants hi collar - bone hollows and lea white throat bare between.

The front action terminates in pendant pear-shaped diamond great size. When the section worn on the head, it can be ranged so the diamond dangl over the widow's peak as an Ea ern princess might wear it. O er way up, the section becomes tiara with the big stone its ke stone. The entire bauble is va ued around 20 million fran (about $57,000).

When blocking hand-knitted wo en pieces, use a pressing cloth b tween the g ent and your iro Hold the iron slightly above t article, shaping it as you go, wh still d mp. Press until dry, ways using a patting rather th a scrubbing motion.

Hot fat hazard in the kitchen c be lessened if you avoid letti drops of water fall into the fat using too cold a batter. Coldne added to the heat causes sputt ing.

Padded hangers are the best ki for your clothes, as they help ke shoulder shapes. You can pin sachet bags to their undersides scent your blouses and dresses.

Patterson Family Builds Home With Own Hands

BY GLORIA KALIL
News-Star—World Staff Writer

Back in the pioneer days, it was t unusual for a man and his fam- to erect a cabin to live in, with eir own hands — he just felled me trees and before long a log abin stood in sight — but the rly pioneer did not have to con- nd with drawing plans, laying ricks, and installing plumbing and iring facilities, as did Mr. and rs. A. E. Patterson and family.

Quite different from the log cab- s built back in those pioneer days the attractive seven - room house at this family erected at 1314 peed Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Pat- terson, their son Mike, 7, and two daughters, Jo Ann, 6, and Suzanne, nine months old, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Jesse Armstrong, just moved into their hand - built home last February, although the actual building of the house started five years ago. After Mr. Patterson drew the plans from a picture in a magazine, old bricks were brought in from everywhere, and as Mrs. Patterson cleaned the bricks, her husband laid them. Then came the frame, and lumber from an old school house in Calhoun made nice lumber for the roof, and finally after all this, evidence of the planned seven - room home could be seen.

The kitchen is conveniently designed with a tile breakfast bar, with a stove enclosed. Modernly connected is a passway between the dining room and the kitchen. The living room is strikingy set off with a slanted beamed ceiling with indirect lighting. This room also has floor length windows, which look out across the enclosed patio to the screened playhouse. These windows will be covered with nutmeg colored fiber glass drapes made by Mrs. Patterson.

Bringing in the touch of the old is a 75-year-old player piano, and also an old - fashioned organ. Scattered throughout the house on the cement floor can be found hand-hooked rugs.

Mr. Patterson, a mechanical engineer for a construction firm, planned the house so that it would be enclosed by the trees which were on the lot. Also he made sure that the sun would never directly hit the house. In the back yard and surrounding the house are flowers of every variety, and Mr. Patterson dug a well in his back yard so that it was easy to water the flowers.

On the side of the carport are three large storage rooms and all through the house are extra large closets.

It was a hard job, and it took a lot of time, and during the five years, the family gave up many little pleasures to go move bricks or do some sort of work on their home but the Patterson family thoroughly agree that they are more than enjoying the fruits of their labor.

How To Choose Right Handbag

How many handbags have you wned that didn't live up to your pectations in one or more of ese aspects — roominess, com- rt and style? You can avoid such sappointment in your new fall ndbag if you bear certain points mind when shopping.

Much has been said about scal- g a handbag to your size. Put prospective new bag over your rm and stand before a full-length irrow to determine whether it warfs you or looks ridiculously mall.

Adequate room, however, is a ore important factor than ap- earance when you decide on a se. Why not transfer your hand- g contents from the one you're arrying to the one you're consid- ring? Then you'll know whether e bag is large enough. If it's for ravel, it ought to have zipper ompartments and plenty of extra oom.

Comfort depends on light weight, exible handles of the right length nd a neat shape. A frame and a iff leather add to weight. Handles ay cut into the arm, so try them er your arm when you shop.

A convenient bag for every day ill stand on its own base without ppling and will open up quickly d easily, revealing the contents ithout need for groping. Your be- ngings will be safely inside and t liable to fall out in transit.

Choose a color that goes with ost of your clothes. Black goes ith everything. Leather will give u the best wear for every day. ot evening, you'll want velvet, atin or faille. As for style, you'll row less tired of a graceful, sim- le shape that doesn't look too uch like any particular season. A t of decoration on a bag looks ussy.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. Women bring to politics not greater ability or knowledge but greater sympathy and understanding of many human needs. They've strongly influenced better laws relating to home, welfare of women and children, food inspection, schools, sanitation, etc. The late Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to F. D. R., showed that women manage campaign funds more wisely and, strange to say, even have money left over! Furthermore, they insist that candidates clarify their stand on important issues.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Yes. Psychologist Z. A. Pietrowski concluded from his research that only by changing attitudes do you really change yourself. Attitudes are the chief causes of our behavior. As long as one behaves as he did when he was 10 or 12 years old, he is an adult child—an emotional moron. Our booklet, "How To Be An Emotional Grownup," will tell you in a jiffy how old you are. Sent at cost, 15c (coin only) plus self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Short. Many experiments show that you learn faster by short periods of intensive work rather than less frequent long periods covering the same aggregate time. Your movements are awkward at first and in long periods you may begin repeating your errors. Many golfers, without instruction, often get worse instead of better. It's to your advantage to take frequent rests, analyze your errors and tackle the job again when you are fresh.

How to be an Emotional Grownup

Test your grown-upness. An easy formula to help you become a happy, poised person. For a copy of the booklet, How to be an Emotional Grownup, send 15c (coin only), plus self-addressed, stamped envelope (give name of city and state) to Dr. A. E. Wiggam care of News-Star.

Louisiana Rates Among Highest In Child Marriages

WASHINGTON (Special)— Louisiana citizens have little reason to feel a trifle smug when you hear about child marriages in Mississippi or Tennessee — quite a number happen in the Pelican state too!

In fact, Louisiana ranked fifth in the nation in per capita child marriages in 1950. Her score was one for every 6,030 residents.

Ahead of Louisiana were Mississippi with one child marriage for every 4,072 residents, Tennessee with one such marriage for every 5,183 residents: Arkansas, one for every 5,455 residents, and Georgia with one for every 5,938 residents.

Census - takers say Louisiana had 185 14-year-old grooms and 260 14-year-old brides in 1950. Their statistics do not cover marriages of those under 14, but it is assumed there are a proportionate number in that age category.

Following closely behind Louisiana in per capita child marriages were Alabama with one for every 6,062; Kentucky, one for every 6,472, and Florida, one for every 6,677 residents.

Fewer child marriages took place in Nevada than in any other state. There only five 14-year-old girls and five 14-year-old boys were married.

From The Deep South Comes Chicken Jambalaya

Jambalaya! Mrs. Carmen Montegut of the New Orleans Times-Picayune Chapter, who rang the bell but definitely with her "Chicken and Oyster Gumbo" last January, has sent us another winner. Mrs. Montegut stirred up so much fan mail before that we're sure you'll be glad to hear from her again.

1 large onion, cut fine.
1 green bell pepper, diced.
1½ cups water.
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley.
Salt, pepper, monosodium glutamate.

Heat oil or fat in a dutch oven or deep skillet. Fry chicken until nicely browned, then remove chicken from the pot. Add and saute the minced onion and garlic. Then stir in the tomatoes and sliced mushrooms. Cook slowly 20 to 30 minutes. Season to taste with salt, pepper, MSG and hot sauce.

Return the chicken to the pot. You may remove meat from the bones and cut it, not too fine. Add both meat and bones, and fish out the bones just before serving. Or, if that seems too much work, just put back the fried pieces, "as is."

Wash two cups of rice thoroughly and add, with 1½ cups of water. Stir and cover tightly, and simmer about 1½ hours. Just before serving, stir in chopped onion tops and parsley, check seasonings for flavor, and — Jambalay-uh!

Not to change the subject, but "roastin' ear time" is here again. Remember how we roasted them in the husks a year ago? You can do the job in aluminum foil, too, or just boil them briefly in salted and slightly sugared water—but have them as fresh from the field as you possibly can!

E. U. Sherman of the Wichita Eagle Chapter hails from the corn belt and certainly knows his ears. And here's his favorite stunt which he recommends for use at home, on a picnic or at a backyard oven party.

Use a 46-ounce tall can such as tomatoes or fruit juice come in, or some other heat-proof vessel of similar dimensions. Fill two-thirds full with boiling water, and keep it hot. Drop in ¼ lb. of butter, which melts and floats on top of the water.

Firmly impale the corn on an ice-pick or fork pushed firmly into the cob, then dip the corn slowly into the hot water, and after it is completely immersed, lift it out very slowly. The melted butter coats every kernel evenly and completely.

Salt and pepper may be added to the butter, or dusted on afterwards as you prefer. "After this operation is completed on boiled, boiled or roasted-in-the-husk ears, just let your conscience be your guide," counsels Skilleteer Sherman. Brother, will we!

Send your favorite recipe and a stamped, addressed envelope to this newspaper and become a life member of The Skillet Club, and we'll send you a membership card to prove it.

Peach stain on fabric is one fruit stain which may not respond to clear boiling water. Since it contains a tannin, you'll probably need to bleach with oxalic acid solution and ammonia.

LET'S CLEAN UP MONROE—The appearance of a city is not always judged by the front street or the residential areas. The back streets and railway areas are always in sight, especially when they are within one or two blocks of DeSiard street. The picture above was taken in a small area between a railroad and a DeSiard street business establishment. In addition to being a terrific fire hazard, the above pile also had many bottles and cans which are places for mosquito breeding. (Staff Photo)
